

PRESIDENT Coolidge, speaking to the largest audience ever directly addressed by a single human voice, painted a new picture of George Washington as a practical business man.

It was an engaging portrait. May one hazard the guess that it was also exceedingly skilful politics? Against the background of the traditional Washington, secure in the admiration of the people, was the appealing picture of the great man exercising the same homely virtues in common affairs that life also requires of the humblest listener-in. Washington merely did it better. And then, unobtrusively, quite in the same picture, was Washington the richest man of his time; young America's only millionaire, manager of wide estates, promoter of vast developments, stockholder in great enterprises, farmer, banker, financier. Surely, this was no public enemy; no figure to arouse jealousy or hostility. It fits, rather, into our conception of democratic success. Washington's private undertakings, though profitable to himself, were also a public service.

Was any modern application intended? IT TOOK a Mussolini to write Italy's letter of refusal, to the naval disarmament meeting. A mere excuse for not accepting, with a delicate side-stroke at American isolation, was easy. France showed that. But only a dream-Napoleon would have dragged in, quite irrelevantly, a defiance of Britain and a challenge to the British fleet.

HERE are two sentences from Mussolini's reply. "Italy has, in fact, only three lines of communication with the rest of the world, through Suez, Gibraltar and the Dardanelles, for provisioning itself."

"Italy has four important colonies to protect, two of which are beyond the Suez canal."

TWO of these gateways to Italy, Suez and Gibraltar, are British. Britain has never permitted the Dardanelles to fall into the hands of any possible formidable rival. Britain guards these gates, not with scouting boats, but with battleships and great fortifications. And yet Mussolini uses them as a pretext for a free hand in light cruisers! Does he expect to crash the gates of Gibraltar with these puny arms? Or has he merely seized this opportunity for a gesture of megalomaniacal defiance? Either way, if Italy expects to get out of the Mediterranean without Britain's consent, it needs a fleet of dreadnaughts.

COMEBODY took the occasion of Washington's birthday to argue that the hatchet story might be true, after all.

The argument was not very conclusive. But just to show how myths take color from the minds they filter through—here is the Chinese version of that story:

"Little Washington George was playing with his amah in the alley, when his father came riding from the Yamen in his sedan chair, with the servant bearing a package wrapped in silk. 'A gift to you for the New Year, Washington George,' said the father. 'Most humble obeisance, honored sir,' replied Washington George. The coolie unwrapped the package, revealing a bright new axe. Washington George ran into the compound with his gift, and there he saw a beautiful flowering cherry tree, with which his father imported from Japan. The temptation was too great, and soon the tree lay low. In a little time the father, carrying the cage, came out to take his bird for its walk. Seeing the tree, he called the gardener and demanded an explanation. 'Sir, would I cut off my right arm?' said the gardener; so the father perceived that he was innocent. Just then Washington George appeared, and the father made the same inquiry. But Washington George only sobbed and ran off toward the women's quarters. 'Not there,' said the father. 'Let us not disturb a serious matter by mixing women in it.' But Washington George only sobbed the harder. Finally, controlling himself, he stammered, 'Father, I know not what ails me, but I can not tell you today.'

The better you can understand that story, the more you know about China and Chinese.

PARIS chefs are holding a contest, to demonstrate how delicious meals can be prepared from very moderate amounts of the cheapest possible materials.

Of course it can be done. A ten thousand dollar cook can prepare a ten-dollar meal from ten cents scraps. But he does not have to. Similarly, a skilled purchasing agent can make a hundred dollar income do the work of two hundred. But he does not have to live on either one hundred or two hundred. And a nutritional expert can make a balanced diet from the cheapest materials. But he does not need to do so.

IN FACT, whoever has the ability, knowledge, skill, energy and determination, which the poor need to solve their problem, does not have to solve them. For these are precisely the most marketable of human qualities, and among the rarest. The world competes for the privilege of paying a high price for them. A solution for the ordinary man's problem is not a solution unless it comes within the ordinary man's talents and opportunities. And when it means, as in our time it largely does, bucking the huge impersonal machine of organized society, he needs organized help to do it. Modern problems are increasingly social.

British Party Chief Not Welcome in Town Where 52 Men Perished in Blast

(By United Press)
CARDIFF, March 2.—Police action was necessary today to protect Premier and Mrs. Stanley Baldwin from an angry rush of miners when the Conservative leader visited the scene of yesterday's mine explosion, which cost the lives of 52 men.

Baldwin was hissed and booed. As a gesture of sympathy he had motored to the pit head from St. Heger's castle, near Cardiff, where he and Mrs. Baldwin were guests of the Earl of Plymouth.

The grief-stricken men and women resented the presence of the premier and shouted "traitor" at him.

"Get back to your pigs," bellowed one miner.

"Down him!" another shouted. "A group of miners attempted to rush toward the Baldwin car, but was frustrated by the police."

Baldwin was obviously upset by the miners' attitude. The premier's departure caused another anti-social outburst. He visited several strikes' homes, where Mrs. Baldwin attempted to console the women folk of some of the dead. But as the car left the village, Baldwin was again hooted.

KERENSKY LANDS IN UNITED STATES

NEW YORK, March 2.—Alexander Kerensky, who headed the Russian government that overthrew the czar and in turn gave way to the Soviets, arrived in New York today, aboard the White Star liner Olympic.

"We all hope for the establishment of a free government in Russia," he said to newspapermen.

Grown more philosophic in the years of his exile than when he was the moving spirit of Russia, Kerensky still spoke forcefully. He said he was confident about the ultimate future of Russia, "a nation abounding in resources and courage, but at present lacking in the necessary leadership to enable it to throw off the Communistic yoke."

Kerensky was met down the bay by Assistant U. S. Attorney Kenneth Simpson and Prof. Nicholas Vinner, instructor in Russian at Columbia university. Kerensky speaks Russian and French fluently, but only broken English and in his interview with reporters Professor Vinner acted as interpreter.

NEW TERROR REIGN RULES IN SHANGHAI

Four Chinese Mill Workers, Including One Woman, Are Killed by Laborites

Nine Hundred Nipponese Seamen March in International Area of City

(By United Press)
SHANGHAI, March 2.—Chinese laborites, in sympathy with the cause of the Cantonese Nationalists, today embarked upon a terrorist campaign, which so far had resulted in the murder of four mill employees, one of them a woman.

Beyond the terrorism of the laborites, styling themselves as the Labor Protection society, Shanghai was quiet.

The protection society was endeavoring today to renew the general strike, which was called here more than a week ago, but which lasted only a few days.

It was reliably reported today that all of Marshal Sun Chuan Chang's military commanders would resign as a result of Sun's resignation from the governorship of this area. It was expected that Chang Chung-Chang would assume full control on the Sun-giang front, 30 miles south of Shanghai. It was reported, without confirmation, that the Cantonese Nationalists were advancing in the direction of Soo Chow, 50 miles west of Shanghai, in an effort to cut Chang's line and thereby isolate his army at Sun-kiang.

Sun was expected soon to announce his retirement to Japan. Nine hundred Japanese sailors paraded through the international settlement today.

MARSHAL RESIGNS AS MILITARY LEADER
PEKING, March 2.—Marshal Sun Chuan Fang today resigned as military leader of the Shanghai area.

Chang Chung Chia, already in active charge of the forces defending Shanghai from Cantonese forces, was expected to assume charge of the area on behalf of Marshal Chang Tso Lin.

Sun's formal resignation, which had been expected for several days, was received by the Peking government.

Sun said a "red wave" has swept over the five provinces in his territory, making his efforts to control the district fruitless.

Boston Concern Seeks to Collect from Members of Miracle Cast

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Lady Diana Manners, English peeress, famous as the nun in "The Miracle," the Morris Gest production, and Iris Tree, alias of the cast, faced entanglement with the law here today.

In an attachment suit filed in municipal court, in behalf of the Winchester Retail Stores, Inc., of Boston, it is alleged the noted players neglected to pay for clothing purchased in Boston, in 1925.

Clothing Bought in Boston
According to Attorney George Gardner, representing the Boston firm, Lady Manners purchased a $90 riding habit and Miss Tree ordered $100 worth of miscellaneous clothing, during a presentation of "The Miracle" in the eastern city.

"We have sent both Lady Diana and Iris Tree numerous letters requesting them to settle these accounts," Gardner said, "but they have not seen fit to reply."

"We did everything possible to keep the action out of the courts, but we can wait no longer. I made several efforts to see them personally, but they were too well guarded," Gardner said.

The action will be heard in municipal court as soon as summonses have been served on the defendants. "The Miracle" is scheduled to complete its run here Saturday.

NORFOLK STRUCK BY FIERCE GALE

NORFOLK, Va., March 2.—A gale of about 60 miles an hour in velocity struck this seaport city shortly before 10 a. m. today. The tremendous wind blew water into the waterfront district, flooding several streets along the Elizabeth river, which flows into the Chesapeake bay here.

Weather bureau observers a few hours before predicted "the worst gale in years."

Near noon, with the wind still increasing, City Hall avenue, in the center of the downtown business district, was flooded a foot deep with storm-driven water. Traffic was at a standstill in many parts of the city.

Johnson, of South Dakota, Exposes What He Avers Are Mystery Case Facts

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, March 2.—A charge that Jerry Tarbot, who claims to have lost his identity in the World War, is an imposter, was made before the house veterans' committee today by Chairman Johnson, Republican, South Dakota.

Johnson said Tarbot's real name was Alexander Dubois Jr. He said Tarbot had 20 different aliases.

Johnson said he was positive the following facts were true: That Tarbot's father is a chef in a hotel in Cuba.

That he was married under the name of Howard Noble to Flora Lange, in Toledo, O., in December, 1917.

That his mother's name was Mary Richards Riley.

That he has an aunt by the name of Riley in New York.

Married in Schenectady
That he was married first in Schenectady, N. Y.

That he was arrested in San Francisco, in 1922, for automobile theft.

That he was a draft dodger. Tarbot looked puzzled as Johnson called to the stand Mrs. Lange, who, he claimed, was married to Jerry.

"Did you ever see this man before?" Johnson asked, pointing to Tarbot.

"Yes, sir," Mrs. Lange replied. "Were you ever married to him?" "Yes, on Dec. 22, 1917," she replied.

POISON EATEN IN FRUIT SALAD KILLS TEACHER

Officers Are Not Decided Whether Case Is Murder or Suicide

(By United Press)
FRESNO, March 2.—Unless something unexpected develops, the police investigation into the death of Mrs. Lura T. Wells, school teacher, after eating strychnine poison in a salad, will be ended today, Captain of Detectives Jackson Broad said this morning.

"I am of the belief that the woman committed suicide, but will not decide the case definitely until I question all relatives of the woman after the funeral today, because something might show up in that examination which would indicate murder," Captain Broad said.

The captain revealed that the investigation is being conducted at the request of Mrs. Wells' relatives, who believe the poison was smuggled into her home in an orange, which was used to make the salad.

The salad was served at a birthday party, in honor of Mrs. Wells' sister, Margaret. It was attended by five members of the family and during the meal Mrs. Wells remarked that her salad was sour. The teacher was the only one who noticed this tartness and none of the others was ill after eating the salad, which was prepared and served by Mrs. Wells.

REALTORS ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLEMENT

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—A grand jury investigation into alleged embezzlement of property of Mrs. Winifred E. Walker, of Montecito, by two Hollywood realtors, got under way here today, when the district attorney's office began efforts to ascertain the exact amount of the loss.

According to Mrs. Walker, she turned over property valued at $120,000, giving the men power of attorney.

Karl Raentsch, Hollywood realtor, was named in a complaint signed by Mrs. Walker, about one week ago, in which she charged Raentsch with appropriating several thousand dollars of her money for his own use.

TALK AGAINST RESOLUTION FOR RECOUNT

Act to Forestall Measure For Recheck of Pennsylvania Primary Ballots

JOURNAL READ IN FULL
Speakers Unweakened by Threat of 49-Hour Session Until Adjournment

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Still another fight for the closing three days of congress appeared suddenly today, as a result of President Coolidge's selection for the federal radio commission. Opposition from some quarters flared against all of the five named and the nominations were referred to the interstate commerce committee for investigations, with but three days for investigation and action by the senate.

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, March 2.—Unweakened by the threat of a 49-hour continuous session until adjournment at noon, Friday, the filibuster against the Recheck resolution for a recount of Pennsylvania primary ballots was renewed in the senate today.

The senate met at 11 a. m., an hour earlier than usual, in the hope the filibusters might be worn down by night, but there was no indication that the end was near.

Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, demanded full reading of the journal of yesterday's proceedings and ponderous documents of some 50 pages reciting events in the senate.

Clerk Reads Record
The clerk thereupon took up the filibusters' work for them and read the document in a voice that could not be heard five feet from him.

Taking a night off from its continuing filibuster, the senate last night, in a special session, went on a legislative spree, passing 129 bills in three hours. Most of them were unopposed.

Among the bills were the following: Joint resolution appropriating $75,000 requested by President Coolidge to send American delegation to the Geneva preparatory arms conference. Now goes to the president for signature.

Joint resolution authorizing $15,000 send American delegation to Geneva economic conference. Now goes to the president.

House bill appropriating $2,200,000 for rebuilding of Titanic, destroyed in the Lake Denmark arsenal explosion, last summer. Now goes to president.

Widows' Pensions Increased
House bill increasing pensions of Civil War widows $12,000,000 yearly, granting widows more than 75 years of age an increase of $10 per month to a total of $40 per month. Now goes to president.

Bill increasing annual salaries of first-class postmasters, including: New York and Chicago, $12,000; Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Kansas City, Mo., $10,000; Los Angeles, San Francisco, $8,000; Denver, Seattle, $8,000; New Orleans, Portland, Ore., Omaha, and Oakland, $7,000. Now goes to the house.

House bills authorizing increase of $6,000,000 in connection with costs of airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga, $13,150,000 for modernizing battleships Oklahoma and Nevada, and $4,652,000 for construction at Coco Solo, Canal Zone; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Sand Point, Wn.; San Diego, Calif., and Hampton Roads, Va.

ABOLISHING OF SUBMARINES IS AIM OF BRITAIN

LONDON, March 2.—There are some British statesmen who would like to know just what President Coolidge had in mind when he recommended the extension of the 5-5-3 naval ratio to auxiliary craft recently.

Inasmuch as British diplomacy has for a couple of years held it self-evident that neither France nor Italy would consent to limitation of submarines, there is a tendency to doubt whether the Coolidge proposal could possibly be nothing more than what it seemed on the surface—a plain bid for further naval limitations.

The president, the British think, must plainly have anticipated some such polite refusal as France has just delivered; must have taken it for granted; and must have counted on it as a basis on which to make the next move. Opinion in various quarters here attributes three motives to President Coolidge and interestingly enough each is put forth on the assumption that the president's diplomacy anticipated the initial rebuff which it has now met.

His three courses as seen here might be:

1.—To seek a three power instead of a five-power agreement and to use this as a weapon against continental countries.

2.—To clear the record preparatory to intensive naval construction.

3.—Simply to provide campaign material for use later.

There are some people who believe the president was moved by a combination of the last two suggested courses.

In any event the British to avoid any embarrassment had only to do one very simple thing—to wait and do nothing. This country could afford to wait, but France could not.

Now that France has spiked actual five-power limitation for the time being it is open to any other country to profess unlimited devotion to the theory of disarmament, while regretting its practical unworkability.

COMPLAINT FILED ON GAS SERVICE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—Charging that natural gas served by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation gives off poisonous fumes from carbon dioxide and that the pressure is so variable it causes burners to go out with a resultant danger to life, the city of Pasadena today filed a complaint with the state railroad commission.

The complaint also alleges that the gas served by the corporation does not contain the standard heating value that natural gas should. The corporation is serving natural gas under a recent order of the commission.

The complaint probably will be heard in Los Angeles, tomorrow, while the commission sits in on a number of Southern California rate adjusting cases.

Packard Price Cut Announced

A drop of $335 in prices quoted on the Packard five-passenger sedan, five-passenger phaeton and four-passenger roadster is announced here by Hightower and Cromer, Santa Ana distributors. Coolidge Signs Bill for Three Cruisers

WASHINGTON, March 2.—President Coolidge signed the naval appropriations bill, which includes authorization for starting three additional cruisers. An appropriation of $450,000 for starting the work was approved a few days ago by house and senate conferees, after the house originally had rejected a higher sum and the senate had approved it.

HEFLIN IN TIRADE AGAINST KELLOGG

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Secretary of State Kellogg and Ambassador James R. Sheffield, at Mexico City, were charged by Senator Hefflin, Democrat, Alabama, in the senate today, with "lending friendly assistance to those who are trying to foment a disturbance with Mexico."

Hefflin renewed his attack against the Knights of Columbus and declared the concentration of marines and warships around Nicaragua was suspiciously indicative of the possibility that the United States would be involved in war with Mexico as soon as congress adjourns.

"Is it true that some of our marines have been killed in Nicaragua and the won't let it out until after congress adjourns?" asked the Alabama senator. "If any of our marines have been killed in Nicaragua, congress should know about it before adjourning."

The navy denied today anyone had been killed.

Hefflin criticized the state department for surrounding its latest note to Mexico with secrecy, asking: "Are they trying to keep the country from knowing what they are doing until after congress adjourns?"

Hefflin complimented Senator Borah for his recent correspondence with President Calles, of Mexico, saying Borah was entitled to "get at the truth of the situation."

FATE OF SCION TO REST WITH JURORS

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—The fate of Carl Westcott, scion of a wealthy Minneapolis family, on trial for the murder of his father, Charles G. Westcott, probably will be in the hands of a jury today.

Only one prosecution argument remains to be presented and the jury probably will be instructed and locked up some time this afternoon, the prosecution announced.

Westcott, the state alleges, shot and killed his father, the night of Oct. 20, 1926, as the culmination of a series of arguments over an estate left by the murdered man's father.

The state is asking the death penalty.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR CULT LEADER

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Armed with a warrant charging conspiracy to commit murder, police began a state-wide search today for Mrs. Margaret W. Rowan, cult leader, and end of the world prophets.

SIGNIFICANCE OF NAMES SEEN IN CHINA WAR

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—"Accompanied by a bright light on a dark night, a mountain of precious stone and a benevolent rain are preparing to battle against the hosts of paradise somewhere south of Shanghai."

This is what Chinese newspapers of San Francisco say literally when they publish dispatches forecasting a clash between Chang Tso-lin, Bei Bao-San and their northern forces and the Cantonese Nationalists.

Made Brave in Infancy
When the intrepid Chinese generals were three days old and powerless to defend themselves, neighbors went to their homes and participated in ceremonies that helped make them fearless and wise in later life. They rubbed their stomachs with ginger and their backs with onions. Thereafter the infants received their significant names.

It has been suggested that either the onion or ginger used on Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek was especially potent. His name signifies "strength and hardness of stone." The gathering of 15,000 foreign troops and 30 warships in Shanghai Harbor is taken as an admission that he is really "hard."

Names always have a meaning in China and in this respect the Cantonese appear to have the edge. With the hard Chiang Kai-Shek are: Wu Teh-Chen (iron wall), Li Foo-Li (paradise), Pang Seng-Chi (great strength); Chi Bai-Beh (bright light), and Li Chi-Hsen (overflowing with preciousness).

More Spiritual in North
Softer and more spiritually inclined men are those of the north. Heading them all is Chang Tso-Lin (benevolent rain), and with him for the present are Wu Pei-Fu (believer in truth), Bei Bao-San (mountain of precious stone), Sun Chuan-Fang (spreading fame), Meng Choo-Yueh (bright light on dark night), Chang Chung Chang (giver of prosperity), and Chao Yin-Jen (bringing good to the people).

Foreigners also are given significant names in China and in the foreign defense lines will be: Upholder of virtue, studious violet, renowned gentleman and a host of others.

While most San Francisco Chinese favor the Nationalists, there are a few who think the present war is just another scuffle and say: "Let the best name win."

AMERICAN NOTE TO MEXICO IS GRAVE

MEXICO CITY, March 2.—Belief that the United States note delivered to the Mexican government Monday is of grave importance was strengthened today when it was learned Ambassador Teller, en route here from Washington to visit ill relatives, had stopped at San Luis Potosi and was returning to the United States.

The foreign office announced Teller changed his plans because the illness of his relatives was no longer serious.

Both the U. S. embassy and the foreign office continued to refuse discussion of the note, but it was understood it did not deal with the disputed oil and land laws.

The San Antonio, the third amphibian of the five which composed the squadron, was at Valdivia, Chile, today, preparing for a flight across the Andes to Argentina, whence it would turn northward to overtake the San Francisco and the St. Louis.

The planes departed at 6:30 a. m. and, provided weather conditions were favorable, were expected to arrive at the capital of Paraguay after a 10-hour flight. Captain Whitehead and Lieutenant Weddington will proceed northward by boat. The bodies of Woolsey and Benton already have started north.

A WORD OF COMFORT
Many people mistake gentleness for weakness. In reality, it is strength which has become disciplined and controlled and purified. A small man may show a very loud and be no bigger. Harsh words and ready blows are evidences of cowardly spirit. It is your mood, not of your power.

God's voice within your heart is "still and small" but it will soothe and inspire and guide and strengthen you. Nothing worth doing is impossible for you in communion with Him.

BIG BUSINESS MARKS GROUND IN SOUTHLAND

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Extraordinary business activity in Southern California marked the month of February, according to an analysis made by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Bank clearings gained 14 1/2 per cent over the corresponding period last year and the highest record in any February in the history of the city was established.

"Coming at a time when practically all the major cities of the country are reporting a decreased volume of bank clearings, as compared with last year, this will emphasize the extraordinary rate at which Los Angeles is growing," the report says.

Hotels Are Crowded
The report reveals that practically all hotels in Southern California cities have reached the limit of registrations and railroads and highways are bringing in from 12 to 25 per cent more passengers than last year.

After an analysis of such factors as school attendance, city directory listings, water, gas and electric meters, passengers carried, and annexations, the research department of the chamber of commerce places the population of Los Angeles, as of January 1, 1927, at 1,300,328.

"This establishes Los Angeles definite in at least fifth position among the cities of the nation," the report states.

Beneficial rains throughout Southern California brought the total precipitation to well above normal. The abundant rainfall has insured adequate supplies of water, not only for agricultural, but for domestic and power purposes.

Benefits Exceed Losses
"While the rainfall caused considerable temporary discomfort and interfered somewhat with immediate sales in some retail lines, damage has been almost negligible and many fold outweighed by the benefits," the report says.

Petroleum production showed a decline during the month, although still ahead of correspondent periods of 1926 and 1925.

The sardine packing industry, which is now at the height of its season, suffered during the first three weeks of the month, but the fourth week showed a great improvement. If the present run of fish continues, the total should equal or exceed 1926, according to this report.

The net result of water commerce for the month shows a decided gain over last year, although the value of imports showed a decrease, while exports to foreign countries showed a decided increase.

Volume of Water Shipping
Preliminary figures for water commerce for the month show a total of 1,900,000 tons of freight passing over the wharves of Los Angeles Harbor, as compared with a little less than 1,600,000 for February, 1926. The value of this commerce for February, this year, was almost $8,000,000 as compared with $59,000 for February of a year ago," the report states.

Agriculture greatly benefited from the rains of the last month, which created a feeling of optimism throughout the state.

According to the report, little damage was done and the benefits derived in the storage of water, both in soil and behind the dams, will be worth millions to California agriculture for this crop season and the next.

"The month of February was a rather hectic one in the citrus industry, because of the rains delaying the picking and restricting shipments and a fictitious price level was created," the report states. "However, the market is gradually righting itself."

Deciduous Prospects Bright
"Prospects for deciduous fruits are especially bright at this time. The winter season was ideal and with the copious rainfall during the past month, it is expected that Southern California will have a normal crop. This is especially true in the San Bernardino and Riverside sections," the report states.

The gradual rise in cotton prices has confirmed a belief that there will be no reduction in cotton acreage in California this spring. Early pickings of California cotton, while later pickings of poor quality are around 10 cents.

The general opinion is that bean plantings in the irrigated sections will be less than last year. Sugar beet plantings are already in progress and sugar companies in progress and sugar companies in progress are making possible the planting of much additional acreage to that already contracted.

SPEAKER URGES FLAT RATE FOR REPAIR WORK

Garagemen must give fair exchange of service, if the confidence of the public is to be maintained, and that means that repair service must be done on a flat rate, it was declared by J. C. Gay, secretary of the Security Manufacturing company, in addressing Orange county automobile men, last night, at the celebration of the fourth anniversary of the establishment of Hockaday and Harlow, parts and service store, in Santa Ana.

About 250 garage and service station operators from all parts of Orange county were present at the celebration.

"Stabilizing the Repair Business" was the topic of the talk by Gay. He said that the car owners ought to be given accurate charges according to work done.

"When an automobile owner wants repair work on his car, the garageman can best satisfy him that the charges are fair by informing the motorist what the cost will be before the job is started. The flat rate basis is becoming necessary," Gay said.

Stanley Clemence, factory representative of the McQuay-Norris Manufacturing company, and George Burbank, factory representative of the American Hammered Ring company, also addressed the automobile men.

The meeting was held at the headquarters of the Hockaday and Harlow store, 112 South Main street.

The introductory speech was made by Robert Hockaday. During the evening, demonstrations of the latest in auto supply equipment were held. A picture of automobile operations was screened. At the conclusion of the program lunch was served.

RAPID SPREAD OF MEASLES IN ORANGE COUNTY

With more than 500 cases on official record, measles, a contagious disease, appearing principally among children between the ages of three and 12, rapidly is spreading throughout the county and is taxing the efforts of the county health department, inquiries at the county health office today revealed.

According to Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer, the disease, while generally found among children, has attacked several adults. Complications, developing from the disease, have resulted in three deaths among children.

Commenting upon the situation, Dr. Presson stated that every effort is being made by his office to check the spread of the disease by isolating each case and by taking affected children out of the schools. In this work, Dr. Presson added, he has had the full co-operation of the school authorities.

While there is no cause for apprehension and while measles is not classed with malignant diseases, it should not be disposed of as a matter of small concern, but should receive the earnest attention of all, the health official concluded.

Reports Loss of Bottle of Wine

Lost—a bottle of wine.

While driving from San Diego to Los Angeles, yesterday, Simon Harris, 1444 Sixth street, San Diego, lost from his machine, a leather bag, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office, and in the bag was a bottle of wine.

He asked that deputy sheriffs assist him in locating the bag and the bottle.

It was explained to officers, however, that the wine was "prescription stuff" and Harris left the name of the doctor who prescribed it with officers, just as insurance.

CONDITION OF POISON VICTIM LITTLE BETTER

A slight improvement was noted today in the condition of Claude Beckett, 28, 415 French street, who is in the Santa Ana Valley hospital, suffering from "toad-stool" poisoning, according to attending physicians.

The man's condition still is critical and physicians would not say that he would recover. They pointed out the fact that the poison had been cleared out of his system and that danger now lies in the amount of damage done to the man's system.

Beckett has suffered constantly since he was taken to the hospital, last Monday morning.

Beckett, with his wife, father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Thompson, were picnicking near Orange County park last Sunday. While there, Beckett picked a quantity of what he thought were mushrooms. He brought them home and the family, with the exception of Mrs. Beckett, ate them for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson both were violently ill several hours after eating the "mushrooms" and Mr. Thompson still is confined to his home. Mrs. Thompson said that she ate but few of the toad-stools. She also was ill, but has recovered.

Beckett is a lineman for the Pacific Telephone company and the family has been living in Santa Ana since January, when Beckett was transferred from San Diego to Santa Ana.

ABANDONED AUTO REPORT DENIED

Reports in Los Angeles newspapers today that an abandoned automobile, thought to have belonged to Mrs. Margaret Rowan, cult leader, charged in Los Angeles with complicity in an alleged plot to murder Dr. Burt Fuller, leader of a reformed group of Seventh Day Adventists, had been located in Orange county, was without foundation here, according to Ed McClellan, chief criminal deputy sheriff.

McClellan, when told of the report, said that he had received no official communication regarding the case, and that, as far as he knew, no such machine had been abandoned in this county.

The Los Angeles papers stated that Mrs. Rowan was thought to be fleeing to the Mexican border, and that officers south of Los Angeles had been asked to intercept her. McClellan said there was nothing to this angle of the story, so far as he knew.

Murder Theory Is Dismissed In Bones Discovery

Discovery of a human skull and other human bones on the ranch of John J. Harrison, near San Juan Capistrano, yesterday, hinted of murder, but an investigation, by Ed McClellan, deputy sheriff, resulted in a report that the bones probably were those of an Indian, buried probably hundreds of years ago.

According to a report filed by Harrison at the sheriff's office, the bones were found buried about 30 inches below ground and looked as if they had been there for approximately 50 years. A skull, thigh, arm and leg bones were found.

McClellan, after an investigation, said the bones were badly decayed and resembled bones dug up at San Clemente about a year ago, which were identified as coming from an old Indian mound.

A number of Indian mounds have been discovered in recent years in this section of the county, officers said.

OFFENSIVE ON INSURANCE ACT DUE TO START

(By United Press)
SACRAMENTO, March 2.—The big insurance offensive was scheduled to begin on the legislative battle front today.

Lines were sharply drawn by the insurance lobby, the largest and most powerful lobby at the present session, as the measure proposing to make all California automobile owners carry liability insurance was scheduled to come up in committee.

Assemblyman William Hornblower, of San Francisco, is sponsor of the bill in the lower house, while Senator Sanborn Young, of Los Gatos, is behind it in the senate.

Fearing that the state may decide to enter the insurance business if the measure passes, the large insurance companies of the state have sent their most influential representatives to attempt to talk the bill to death in committee.

Flood Resolution Passes
A resolution by Assemblyman Myron D. Witter, of Brawley, asking congress for an emergency appropriation of $1,000,000 for the protection of the Imperial valley from Colorado river flood water, which passed the assembly in its closing hours yesterday, was forwarded to Washington today.

The measure is almost identical with one introduced previously by Assemblyman Harry F. Sewell, of Whittier, but defeated when the assembly refused to withdraw it from the federal relations committee.

Bitter charges of "politics" were flung across the floor of the lower house in the debate over the resolution. Assemblyman Sewell declaring that "the Boulder dam bill is being used by politicians as a means of riding into office."

The Sewell resolution lost by a vote of 45 to 23. The Witter resolution carried unanimously.

Assemblyman Heisinger's bill to banish the teaching of evolution in California schools came within an inch of its life when it was offered for the first time in the assembly education committee yesterday.

Heated Discussion Arises
The first opposition offered was a motion by Assemblyman M. J. McDonough, of Oakland, to kill the measure outright. A heated dispute ensued between Heisinger and Assemblyman William Byrne, of Los Angeles, chairman of the committee, over Byrne's remark that the bill was designed to bring publicity to its author.

The Cobb bill, providing for religious education of school children two hours every week, will be given a public hearing March 10, in the senate chamber, it was announced by Senator Herbert W. Frazier, chairman of the education committee.

Seeking to get a legislative vote on elimination of grade crossings in California to reduce the number of deaths, Senator Herbert C. Jones, of San Jose, will present his bill before the senate finance and taxation committee tonight, asking that 5 per cent of state funds be placed in a special fund for elimination of grade crossings. The measure, it is estimated, would raise approximately $450,000 a year for that purpose.

Woman Awarded
$25,000 Damages
For Loss of Leg

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Damages of $25,000 were awarded to Miss Helen A. Golden by a jury here, for the loss of a leg, amputated following an operation to straighten "bow legs."

The judgment was awarded by a jury of eight men and four women against Drs. John Dixon and Thomas M. Hart. It was testified that, with the advent of short skirts, Miss Golden was embarrassed in public by the shape of her legs and decided to have an operation performed.

Blood poisoning set in and her left leg was amputated eight inches below the knee.

Child Bitten by Rattlesnake Dies

TRACEY, Calif., March 2.—Bitten by a rattlesnake while playing, 3-year-old Walker Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Perry, died 12 hours after the reptile's attack. The father rushed the boy to a hospital from the canyon where the family was on an outing, but, despite efforts of physicians, the poison claimed the infant's life.

SUES HUSBAND'S PARENTS
NEW YORK, March 2.—Charging alienation of affections of her husband, Mrs. Carolina Beauchamp Simler, motion picture actress, of Los Angeles, started an action in supreme court to collect $100,000 damages from Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Simler, the parents of her husband, Horace Simler.

Socks worn by babies should have a compartment for the big toe, just as mittens have for the thumb, says a doctor.

ALWAYS DEAD TIRED?
How sad! Sallow complexion, coated tongue, poor appetite, bad breath, pimply skin and always tired. What's wrong? You are poisoned. The bowels are clogged and liver inactive. Take this famous prescription used constantly in place of calomel by men and women for 2½ years—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They are harmless yet very effective. A compound of vegetable ingredients and olive oil. They act easily upon the bowels, free the system of poison caused by faulty elimination and tone up liver.

Be beautiful. Have rosy cheeks, clear eyes and youthful energy that make a success of life. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, nightly. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 50c and 80c.—Adv.

Host Quartet Presents Pleasant Dinner and Musical Evening

A happy blending of the formal and the informal, made the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Jayne and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wiesseman, one of the pleasantest affairs of the week, enjoyed by some forty friends of the hosts, who assembled Monday night at St. Ann's Inn for a dinner party which was followed by an informal musicale in the Wiesseman home.

In details of table appointments, the spring effect given by the artistic arrangement of early blossoms in the center of each table, was accentuated by place cards and by rainbow-tinted napkins each of which was surmounted by a dainty sunbonnet making those features expressed varied emotions of mirth, joy, drowsiness or petulance.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiesseman presided at one table, Mr. and Mrs. Jayne at the second, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Stauffer (Violet Wiesseman) at another, and Dr. and Mrs. John Ball (Isabel Jayne) at the fourth. A delectable dinner menu featuring roast turkey, was served, and at its conclusion, the hosts directed their guests to follow them to the Wiesseman home at 2411 North Park boulevard, amidst whose beautiful surroundings, the remainder of the evening hours were passed.

The informal musical program opened with a song group by Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh, whose beautiful voice always gives such pleasure to her friends, and who, to her own piano accompaniment, sang "Twilight" by Glenn and Teresa del Rio, "Homing," Two talented young girls, Miss Helen Wiesseman of the home, and Miss Helen Slabaugh, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh, were then introduced, and Miss Wiesseman played the piano accompaniment to her friend's violin numbers, the March from Aida (Verdi) and Mascagni's "Intermezzo."

A second song group followed in which Mrs. Slabaugh sang "The Land of the Sky-Blue Water" by Charles Wakefield Cadman, and the Rasbach setting for Joyce Kilmer's "Trees." The remainder of the evening was given over to the lively interchange of ideas incidental to the companionship of forty alert and entertaining guests.

Pupil Recital

Miss Ethel Elliott, teacher of piano, and Miss Edith Hale, expression teacher, will each present a group of talented pupils in joint recital tomorrow night in the Y. M. C. A.

A program which promises one interesting feature after another, has been prepared, and will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock. Piano solos and duets will be varied by readings both humorous and dramatic, and a one-act play will be given. A cordial invitation is issued to all who are interested in the progress of the young people.

JURY DISAGREES IN ATTACK CASE TRIAL

Disagreement of the jury made a mistrial of the court proceedings against Edward Driscoll, charged with a statutory offense, it developed when the jury reported late last night. Superior Judge Homer G. Ames immediately rest the case for trial April 20.

The jury was divided, 7 to 5, it made known in response to a query by Judge Ames as to whether there was any likelihood of agreement if deliberations were continued further. The jury had been "out" for eight hours, from 2:28 p. m. to 10:30 p. m., when its disagreement was announced. Whether the majority favored acquittal or conviction was not learned.

District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., and his chief deputy, L. W. Blodgett, representing the prosecution, were arrayed at the trial against Attorneys O. A. Jacobs and D. G. Wettlin, for the defense.

Capitalist and Movie Star Not Married Here

If David Blankenhorn, Pasadena capitalist, and Irene Rich, motion picture actress, were married secretly last fall, or in the early part of this year, they were not married in Orange county, it was determined today, when newspaper reporters scanned the record of license, upon a report from Los Angeles to the effect that the ceremony had been performed here. That the two have a great deal of affection for each other has been a matter of general information for months, but no report had been made of their marriage.

St. Louis has not won a bowling championship in nearly 25 years, but after what happened in baseball last season the Mound City believes it can win most anything in the line of sports. Consequently, it is arranging to send 45 teams to Peoria next month to try for the American Bowling congress championship.

April 9 will be a red-letter day for athletics at the University of California. On the morning of that day the annual rowing regatta with Washington takes place, while the afternoon program will include a baseball game with Stanford, followed by a dual track and field meet with the University of Nebraska.

Parachutes are now being used in dropping mail bags from airplanes.

Winter Guests at Inn Are Complimented At Pretty Tea

A little group of unusually interesting house-guests at St. Ann's Inn, were made honorees yesterday afternoon at a friendly tea given by Mrs. Robert L. Bisby and Mrs. Mabel Isaacson in the foyer of the Inn where massed yellow blossoms added cheery color to the scene.

The same golden tints were apparent in refreshments served late in the afternoon when Mrs. Bisby presided behind the tea urn, assisted by Mrs. Isaacson and Mrs. Frank Gowen.

The guests to whom the courtesy was extended included Mrs. John T. Seddon and Mrs. M. M. Phelps of Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Hattie Hawkins and Mrs. Fred Catlin of Los Angeles; Mrs. R. T. Tappan, Miss Miriam Tappan, Miss Jeannette Hedges, Mansfield, Ohio; Mrs. F. C. Kelsh, Montreal, Canada; Mrs. M. D. Borgmeyer, Mrs. Henry Carson, Brooklyn, New York, Mrs. A. E. Hoffman, and Mrs. Eleanor B. Melick, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Mrs. Mabel Rockwell, Hollywood; Mrs. Fred Becker, El Centro; Mrs. S. D. Giddings, Pacific Grove, and Mrs. A. W. Stickney, Burlingame.

Among the guests asked to greet the winter visitors, were served relatives or friends of long standing, who included Mrs. William H. Haddon, Mrs. Borgmeyer's sister; Mrs. F. H. Williams, Mrs. Clara Chapman and her sister, Mrs. Abby Chapman. They with a number of others, enjoyed the friendly hospitality of the hostesses and the opportunity to greet "Those Charming People" who have been drawn to Santa Ana and St. Ann's Inn by the manifold pleasures offered by county, city and hostelry.

Citrus Growers Meet For Gay Evening

The beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ut on Lemon Heights, was the scene of a merry gathering last night, when a group of nearly half a hundred friends gathered for a social evening.

Of chief interest, was the fact that the party was really a reunion of those citrus growers of the vicinity who some four years ago, journeyed to Florida to inspect and study growing and marketing conditions there in the citrus industry. Many amusing and interesting happenings of that noteworthy trip were recalled, to the entertainment of all present.

As added entertainment, the Cotton Blossom Singers were introduced, and their rich voices added greatly to the pleasure of the guests. Refreshments gave the final pleasant touch to the evening.

S. A. Woman's Club

One of the most valuable meetings of the year in Santa Ana Woman's club circles, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. Fred Towner, 1138 West First street, where Mrs. Towner's mother, Mrs. A. A. Schlasman, was hostess.

The living rooms were bright with marigolds and sunshine, and since many members were present to enjoy both, the president, Mrs. W. S. Chandler, was greatly pleased when she called the meeting to order.

Many routine matters were taken up and plans were made for the coming reciprocity luncheon to be held at White Gables, the home of Mrs. W. C. Watkins, 1342 North Ross street, on March 29.

Reports were given by Mrs. James Clark and the secretary, Mrs. William Whitehead, on the interesting reciprocity luncheons which they attended at Fullerton Woman's club and the Newport Beach Civic league. Mrs. William C. Watkins gave a note of meritment to the program with her clever Irish readings, "Pat's Dream of Heaven" and "McGinnis As Was," or "An Irish Wake."

Following the program, the hostesses served cherries, Mrs. Schlasman's delicious home-made doughnuts, and coffee, the cherries and the napkins giving the patriotic note. The next meeting will be on March 15, with Mrs. Elmo Wilson, 630 Orange avenue.

Literary Club Enjoys Bookish Details of Clever Luncheon

As a final pre-Lenten social affair, members of the Quill Pen club yesterday shared in a most entertaining luncheon with a decidedly bookish flavor, given by Mrs. Frank J. Was in her home at 517 Orange avenue.

The originality shown by the hostess in her invitations was expressed in all details of the afternoon, and especially in the table, its appointments and menu. Since the club's interests lie in writing in its various forms, the members were delighted to see a table centered with books, both intriguing and helpful, with Roget's The Saurus, Wells' Outline of History and the Standard Dictionary among the number. Ink wells with bright colored quill pens, formed another striking table decoration, while in place of customary luncheon linen, were elaborately scalloped doilies—cut from current copies of the Santa Ana Register!

Place cards were evolved from Mrs. Was' book plates whereon the menu was also lettered, offering such delicacies as "Poetic Soup," mystery food, western sauce, amateur potatoes, plotted beats, tragedy salad, free lance sweets, happy ending coffee.

Pencils were served with the coffee and after guests had read in turn, the paragraphs appropriate to writers which also accompanied it, they turned their attention to crossword puzzles to sharpen their wits. Mrs. Marshall Harnois was first to solve hers and received Martha Ostenson's prize winning novel, "Wild Geese," as a reward. In word building from the club name, Mrs. Elliott was successful and was presented with a copy of "Red Ashes," by Margaret Pedu.

Book talks and a discussion of original work of the inshrdlu Peds original work of the different members, occupied the remainder of the afternoon. While Quill Pen members always anticipate their business meetings when original manuscripts are read and criticized, their social gatherings are especially interesting so it was with much pleasure they received invitations to a St. Patrick's luncheon on Thursday, March 17, at the Tustin home of Mrs. Fred Conover, 116 Mountain View drive. Those enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Was were Mrs. J. F. Adams, president; Mrs. Joseph U. Viaw, Mrs. Blanche Brown, Mrs. Marshall Harnois, Mrs. E. E. Boething, Mrs. Eleanor Elliott, Mrs. Herman Reuter, Mrs. Fred Conover and Mrs. Harry M. Smith.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

St. Joseph

Mrs. Raymond Heim, assisted by her mother Mrs. Henry J. Heim, inaugurated the first of a series of group parties for the women of St. Joseph's church, to take place after Lent to obtain funds for church work.

Mrs. Heim invited 12 women, who, in turn, will entertain 12. Last evening's diversion was the game of 500 and at the conclusion of the series pretty prizes were awarded to Mrs. Francis Shoen and Mrs. J. P. Murphy, the first receiving a linen guest towel and the latter being amply consoled with a pair of beautiful shoe trees.

Delicious refreshments of chocolate parfait, sunshine and angel food cake and coffee were served by the hostesses.

Those enjoying the evening included Mesdames Carl M. Heim, J. P. Murphy, Clyde Ashen, George W. Young, Olive Lopez, Francis Shoen, the Misses Barbara Klatt, Anne and Gretchen Lieberman, and Dell Shoen.

Surprise Luncheon Is Planned As Courtesy By School Staff

Miss Mildred Mead, principal of Lowell school, was very much surprised yesterday at noon when she discovered that her teachers had in some way managed to find out that it was her birthday—which was to have been kept a "deep, dark secret."

The teachers' room in the school building, had been elaborately decorated with spring flowers of all varieties. In the center of the beautifully appointed table was placed a large cluster of sweet peas. At noon, while Miss Mead was at the telephone, the teachers gathered around the table ready to shower the honoree with best wishes. Although almost overcome by surprise the popular principal took the place designated for her at the head of the table and busied herself unwrapping the lovely gifts presented to her by her associates on the staff.

The dainty luncheon served, was completed by a huge birthday cake illumined with sparkling wee candles.

The Lowell teachers also took this occasion to honor Mrs. Freda McFadden who plans to leave soon for Europe. Mrs. McFadden received many very useful and appropriate gifts and was as completely surprised as was Miss Mead.

Those gathered to celebrate the birthday were Mrs. Freda McFadden, Mrs. Hazel Maxwell, Miss Grace Bell, Miss Elizabeth Parslow, Miss Ruth Langley, Miss Persana Deimling, Miss Wilma Plavan, Miss Martha Bells Pugh, Miss Alda Clemons, Miss Ellen Schubert and the honoree, Miss Mildred Mead.

Fathers occupy a unique place in the modern family. Aside from a financial basis, they act as a continuous check upon the motion (usually commotion) of the juvenile members. It's the occasional family that has a father that is one of it. At least, in such a way that the kiddoes feel like it.

No one ever thought of fathers as a perfect work. Not even the father of this ad, who is considerable father himself. But the dear old things got that manner from the patriarchal period when a father had the power of life and death over members of his family. But there's a millennium in sight for fathers. Then those who condemn us will sit and weep and their tears will not stop. Then all families will adopt their fathers as a full-powered member with all sorts of voting privileges.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

The Birth of John

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
SKETCHES BY KROESEN

Throughout the Old Testament the coming of Christ is prophesied. This picture story of "The Life of Christ" begins with the birth of John the Baptist, the forerunner of the Savior. "There was in the days of Herod... a certain priest named Zacharias... and his wife... Elisabeth. And they had no child." (Luke 1:5, 7)

One day when Zacharias went into the temple to burn incense, "there appeared unto him an angel of the Lord... and Zacharias was troubled and fear fell upon him." (Luke 1:9, 11, 12)

"And the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias, for thy prayer is heard; and thy wife Elisabeth shall bear thee a son and thou shalt call his name John." (Luke 1:13)

THE INFANT JOHN THE BAPTIST: "And they called him Zacharias after the name of his father. And his mother answered and said, Not so; but he shall be called John... And his father asked for a writing table, and wrote, saying, His name is John." (Luke 1:59, 63)

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The little smoke bowl drifted round, and finally settled on the ground. The Tines grew quite dizzy 'cause it seemed to rock, and then they felt it slowly stop dead still. They all climbed out in quite a spill. Said Scouty, "Gee, how good it seems to be on earth again."

When all the bunch had left the bowl, it changed its form. They watched it roll away just like a great big ball and finally disappear. Wee Clowny waved his funny hat and said, "I'm glad we're rid of that, and now let's look around and see what we can find down here."

Said Cappy, "It should be real grand, if this is Mother Goose's own land. I wish that we could find her. Maybe she would show us 'round." And then another voice replied, "Well, nothing's gained, if nothing's tried. Let's start to look 'cause that's the only way she can be found."

And so the bunch began to walk, mid smiles of cheer and heaps of talk. It really was a wondrous treat to be down from the air. At first their legs seemed rather weak, and Clowny even felt his squeak, but after 'while they picked up strength, so no one seemed to care.

A little hill was just ahead. Before they reached it Scouty said, "Oh, look! Somebody's coming. It's a little girl and boy. Perhaps they'll gladly let us stay upon this isle of fun and play. Let's run right up and ask them." "Course this filled them all with joy.

The girl and boy soon reached the hill, and each put out a welcome hand. "We're glad to see you," said the boy. "You give us quite a thrill." "And who are you?" asked Clowny, loud. "To meet you we are very proud." And then the little girl replied, "Why, we are Jack and Jill."

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

"Tell me the things you like," says the lover to his lady in a play called "In a Garden." And she tells him—quiet pools, blue larkspur, crystal, the red-brown eyes of old cows, picket fences, fresh hatched yellow ducks, big bumble bees, waking up, and a score of other things.

Now that intelligence tests as a form of entertainment are taking the place of bridge and crossword puzzles in our nation's homes, variety might be introduced by the passing out of pencils and pads with a request to "write a list of your 20 favorite things." The outcome would be, of course, that everyone would strike a pose and write "pine needles at dusk" instead of a truth such as "pancakes with syrup" or "freezin' bath salts."

Anyway, it's an interesting sport for private amusement, a sort of inventory, as it were, of what you really are. What is your list? I insist on being truthful and starting mine with "Sunday mornings when you wake up to know that you can turn over and sleep until noon."

Don't teachers have the same right to send home for a scrub the girl with a face painted and rouged until she looks like a clown that they have to send home a dirty necked child? asks Blanche Bates Creel. With a whoop and a yell she proclaims the faces of school girls an abomination unto the Lord and everyone else who must gaze upon them.

"Why, I never in all my life used so much make-up behind the glaring footlight of the stage that these snips of 13 and 14 used in broad daylight at school," said the actress.

"Stoo bad, but you can't expect too much from the infantile mind. It's easy for adults to bedaub their phizzes but protest the same thing in the part of their offspring. Adults see no inconsistency in their attitude for they reason that the ravages of years make such gilding necessary for them but not for the child. But the attitude does seem inconsistent to the offspring. If Mom does it, why not she?

"I Wanna See, Too"

"Go home to your kiddies and behave yourselves," police, wielding bilbies, said to hundreds of women stampeding a New York hotel ballroom at the Beaux Arts ball, hoping to see their favorite actors and actresses in costume. There were also mobs of men crashing the gates in hopes of seeing the lovely ladies, but there is no record of any admonitions administered unto them to the effect that they should go home to "the little woman and the kiddies."

LIP CREAMS

It's a great mistake to let the lips chap, it's ugly, it's uncomfortable, it makes the mouth temporarily thick and coarse looking. Also, it's one of the easiest discomforts to avoid, so there is no excuse for chapped lips at any time.

Carry one of the little white cream lipsticks in your bag. They are so cheap that you can have several, and never be without one in your pocket or purse during the cold raw days of the later winter. You can get them for 10 cents and you can buy imported ones with a delicious scent to them for 25 cents. Don't get colored ones, then you begin roughing your lips and the color comes off on your handkerchief, on table napkins, on your gloves, even on your own skin. The worst looking thing in the world is to see lips spreading around a face, or else a light reddish center outlined by a darker red rim. And that is inevitable if you use colored lip rouge.

If your lips are very pale, you can get a rose colored rouge, so light it does not stain the skin at all if you rub it over. It will make the slightest pink mark on a handkerchief—it is supposed to keep the lips the natural color at least, to lend pinkness that is not really artificial. It is quite invisible when on the mouth, but I cannot see that it really gives much color or that the white cream, which does not stain, takes away from the natural shade of the lips.

Suit yourself as to which you buy, only don't under any circumstances use a lip rouge that shows. Some day a cosmetic may be invented that colors the lips, stays on and doesn't color anything else, but chemistry has not found the formula yet. Meantime, use white cream lipsticks to protect the lips from chapping. If you are normally healthy, your lips will be red enough for good looks.

If the lips are badly chapped,

Don't let your lips chap in winter. If the cereals in which there is some husk do not irritate, your camphor cream may heal them.

Amy—Take more fruit, especially may get good results from these. Your complexion will improve as you overcome this sluggish tendency. Take a full warm bath every day and always use very cold water as a final rinse for your face and neck. Your pores will clear and refine gradually as you improve your condition.

AMUSING THE CHILDREN

Rickety, ram, oh my!
A telling a tale am I,
Of a fly that flew Near a man I knew
Who was shutting a sleepy-eye.
With a buzz and a boze
It tickled his nose
And danced on the rim of his ear,
And his face he'd clap
With a slapety-slap
To frighten the fly, my dear.

That curious fly would sing
With a zingety-zingety, zing,
He'd pick out a place
On his funny old face
To tickle like anything.
With a flip and a zip
He'd light on his lip

Or walk on the lid of his eye.
And the children just giggled
And chuckled and wiggled
While watching the man and the fly.

'Twas the funniest sight to see
A sleepy old man like me
Who was taking a nap
Going slapety-slap
At a fly every minute or three.
He'd pucker his nose
And he'd wriggle his toes,
He'd twist and he'd squirm and he'd shake.
And the little ones squeaked
And they tittered and shrieked
'Till they finally laughed him awake!

Queer Quirks of NATURE

THE WHITE OAK

By ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

All of the oaks may be grouped as either white or black. The white oak properly belongs, of course, to the former group and is the most important hardwood forest tree native to North America.

The wood is heavy and strong, used generally for flooring, interior finish, furniture and sometimes for fuel.

The leaves are from five to nine inches long and from two to four inches wide. They are deeply divided (usually seven) blunt-pointed, finger-like lobes. The mature leaves are deep green above and light green beneath.

Aside from these features the white oak holds a prominent place among trees from the historic standpoint. The most notable is the charter oak at Hartford, Conn., of which I am sure we have all heard.

Between Marietta and Mount Joy in Pennsylvania, in front of the historic Donegal Presbyterian church, stands the white oak witness tree. About 150 years ago this tree, then already past middle age, witnessed an impressive expression of national patriotism. A tablet near the foot of the tree tells us that on a Sunday morning in September, 1777, a new patriot found expression.

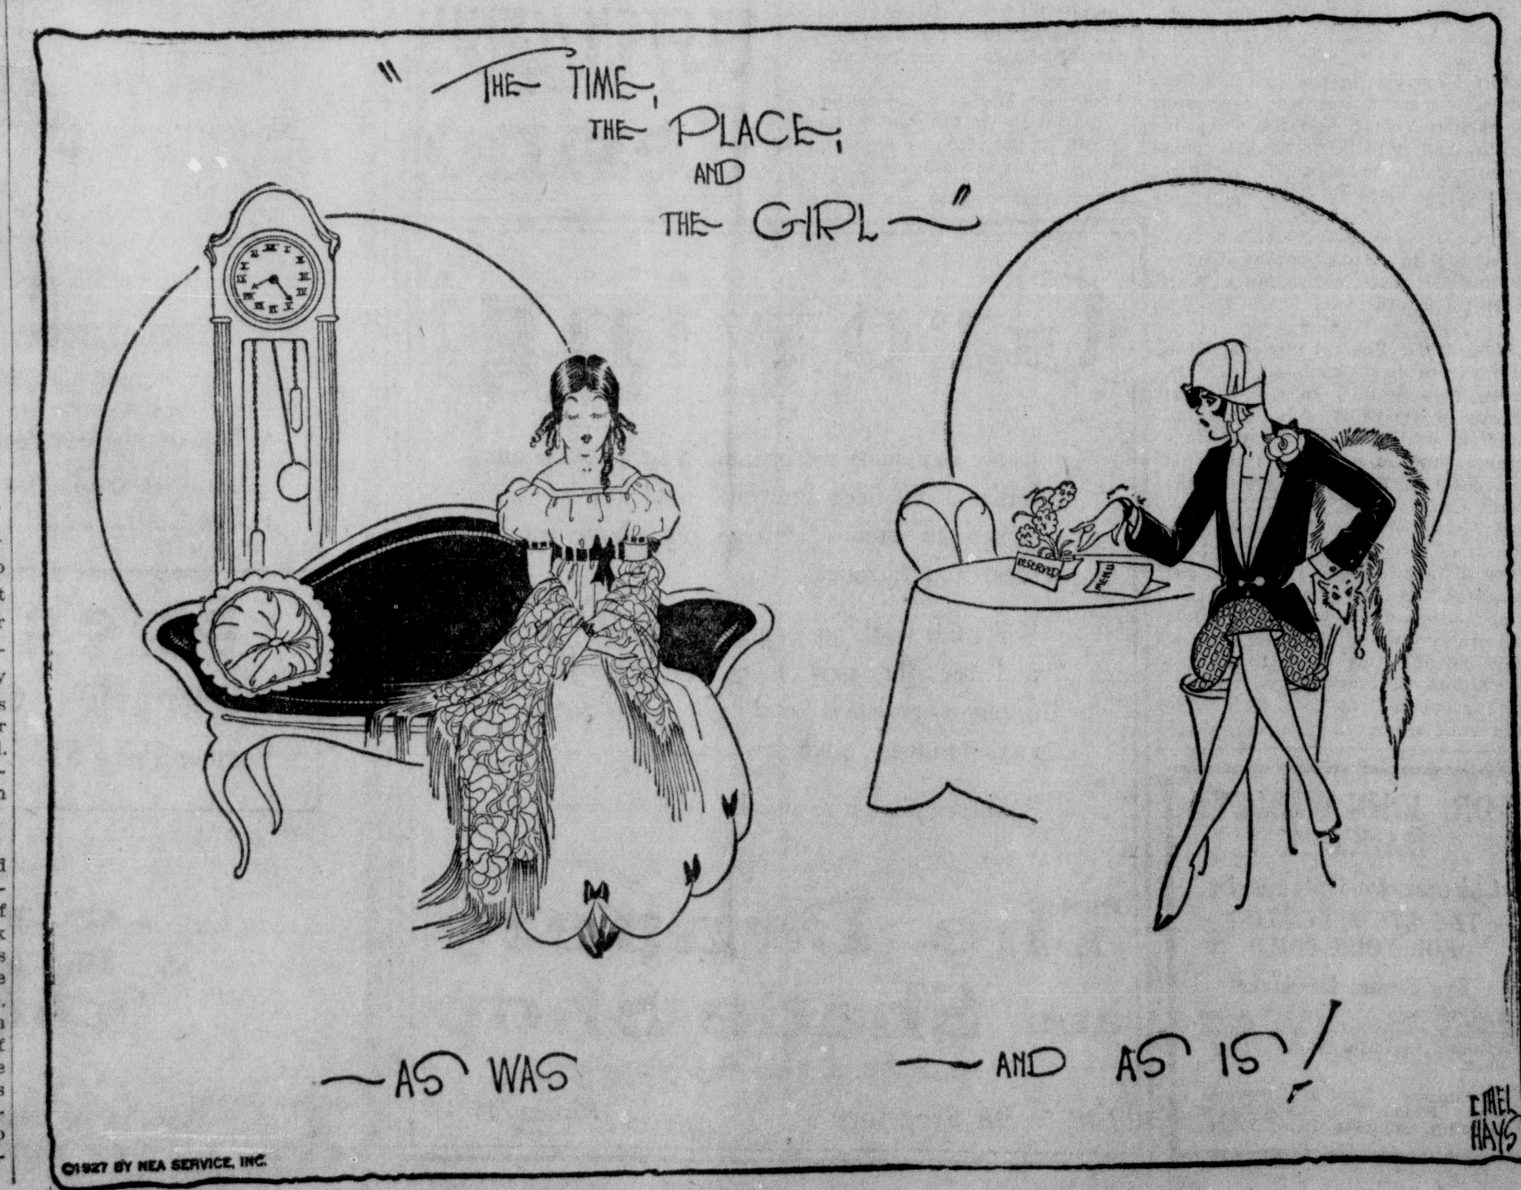

Rev. Colin McFarquhar, had been accustomed to offer prayers for the king of England. Pastor and congregation gathered under this historic tree and together joined hands under its shade and pledged their loyalty to the cause of liberty and the founding of a new nation in the western world.

L. M. FORCEY IN CONTEST FOR SCHOOL BOARD

L. M. Forcey, manager of the collection department of the First National bank, is a candidate for election to the board of education and will file nomination papers tomorrow or the following day, he announced today.

Forcey has been identified with banking circles here for the last 12 years, having first become associated with the Farmers and Merchants' National bank and remaining with the organization taken over by the First National when that institution absorbed the Farmers and Merchants' national.

The candidate is affiliated with prominent lodges and clubs and has been an active member of the organizations. He has children attending the schools here and always has been interested in school affairs of the city.

Friends who have urged Forcey to become a candidate declare that he has qualifications for the position he seeks.

CHAMPION BOY ORATOR WILL SPEAK IN S. A.

Santa Ana high school students will hear Herbert E. Wenig, formerly of Hollywood high school, deliver the oration on "The Constitution" with which he won the national constitutional oratorical contest and the title of the champion boy orator of the United States last year, tomorrow morning, when Wenig appears before the student body assembly.

Wenig was engaged to come here by C. C. Stewart, forensics coach of the Santa Ana high school.

The attention of the students in the high school is turning to the constitutional contest to be held again this year. Twelve students are planning to enter the tryouts in the Santa Ana high school for the chance to go into the county finals.
That number is greater than in any previous year.

Wenig's speech was considered of particular interest at this time because of the approaching contest.

Besides giving the oration that won first in the national finals, the champion orator will make a few remarks on developing an oration. It is planned for him to meet with the Santa Ana students who are intending to enter the tryouts.

The assembly will be open to the public, it was stated today.

Wenig was procured to speak here when it was learned that he would be passing through Southern California Thursday, returning to Stanford University, after addressing the National Educational association, in convention in Dallas, Texas.

Police News

A physician's satchel, containing surgical instruments, medicine, a stethoscope and a flashlight, was stolen from the automobile of Dr.
James Farrage, last night, while the car was parked on Sixth street, between Main and Sycamore streets, according to a report filed with police.

C. O. Craft, Tustin, reported the theft of a spare tire from his car last night, while the machine was parked near Fifth and Broadway.

Police were called to 1315 South Birch street, last night, in search of prowlers reported in the neighborhood. Residents of the district claimed that almost every night lately, prowlers have been seen. A number of windows and doors have been rapped by the men, it was said. Police Officers Hershey and Perry answered the call, but were unable to locate the men.

Charged with being drunk, Dolly
Grey and Jack Duncan, Santa Ana, were fined $25 each in police court, yesterday.

Charged with being drunk and disorderly, Hiram Reed, 40, a box maker from the Sawtelle soldiers' home, was arrested yesterday, in Fullerton. He was brought to jail here.

DRIVES AUTO IN SLEEP
PANA, Ill., Mar. 2.—Rising from his bed in the middle of the night, Frank Umpley, local business man, went to his garage in pajamas, drove his automobile 12 blocks to the home of a friend.
Entering without warning, he announced to John Atkinson, "I've got to fix that furnace." Atkinson, amazed, discovered Umpley was asleep and awakened him.

A rather remarkable baseball record is that of Bob Prysock, who last year won the Michigan-Ontario league pennant for Bay city and who has been signed to pilot the Wheeling Stogies in the Middle Atlantic league the coming season. Prysock has played in major and minor leagues for 14 years and during this long period he has been absent from the lineup only once in some 2000 games.

England's premier boxing trainer is Jack Goodwin, who has prepared the winners of no fewer than 20 professional championship contests.

One of the noticeable features of the present football season in England has been the marked increase in the number of women attending.

STATISTICS REVEAL GOLDEN STATE AS ONE OF GREATEST PRODUCTION CENTERS IN U. S.

"Why California Prospers" was the subject of a paper read by Mrs. William Whitehead, secretary of the Santa Ana Women's club and chairman of the program committee for yesterday's meeting, in the home of Mrs. H. Fred Towner, 1138 West Fifth street.

"After all is said," stated Mrs. Whitehead, "the real secret of the great growth of California in population and in all lines of production is not altogether her climate, although probably the best all-year-round in the world. The greatest reason for the state's wonderful prosperity is the variety and extent of her productions, as shown by her shipments of food stuffs and other commodities."

In Mrs. Whitehead's careful study of carlot shipments, figures show that California moved over fourth of the nation's supplies handled by the railroads, a total of 241,949 carloads, in 1925.

Our state shipped to the markets of the world in the season ended Oct. 31, 1926, 63,640 carloads of citrus fruits, orange exports were 49,964 carlots. Of these, central California shipped 8458 cars. Only two counties of northern California, Butte and Sacramento, have any orange acreage worth mentioning, shipping last season only 339 cars.

This immense crop brought to the growers some $80,000,000, as the net return for their year's labors.

Many Fruit Exports
Among other important fruit exports were apples, fresh and dried, 2700 carloads; peaches, fresh and dried, 15,370 cars; pears, 10,000 cars; prunes, 10,130; strawberries, 125; watermelons, 4500, and cantaloupes, 16,500 cars.

Mrs. Whitehead stressed the fact that the Golden State exported 2,048,000 tons of grapes, 1,241,000 being of the raisin variety; table grapes, 407,000 tons, and wine grapes, 400,000. One county, Pescadero, produced the major share of the raisins of the world.

The state record for cantaloupes was 15,500 cars, while the total for the whole nation was but 28,000 cars.

California also "tells the world with flowers." The story of how California, the garden of the world, is making it possible for people throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico to "say it with flowers" is told by H. P. Shral, express traffic manager for the Southern Pacific lines.

Thrall points out that the annual eastern cut flower business of San Francisco, although little more than 10 years old, already is in the $10,000,000 class and that the business is showing a 25 per cent increase per year.
Eighty-two full refrigerator cars, each carrying 12,500 large chrysanthemums, totaling more than 1,000,000 blooms, were shipped over the company's route last October to cities on the Atlantic coast, some of the big beauties bringing $1.50 a stem and more.

Tons of Seeds Shipped Tons of flowers and other seeds are shipped annually from California to Europe, Africa and the Orient.

Live stock exported during 1925 totaled 20,577 carloads.

Mrs. Whitehead mentioned briefly some of the most important shipments of commodities from Orange county. Greenville, located about five miles southeast of Santa Ana, shipped 70,000 sacks, or 35 tons, of limas, from a total of 2500 acres, averaging 30 sacks per acre.

In 1925 about 7000 tons of English walnuts were prepared for shipment. L. D. Palmer, manager of the Orange County Fruit exchange, said his company had shipped about 5000 cars of oranges and lemons in 1925, bringing a total return of about $8,000,000.

During 1926 more than 500,000 tons of fish were shipped from Newport Beach.

The foreign trade, from Los Angeles harbor, included a tremendous volume of manufactured products, which were sent to 130 world ports.

Oil exports in 1926 totaled 1,400,000,000 gallons, valued at $71,000,000.

The year 1926 will go down into history as the year when the exports from our harbor to foreign countries approximated the $100-000,000 mark. Seventy countries were markets for Southern California products last year.

Our cotton is going in large quantities to Germany, France, Netherlands, Italy, Japan, China and Belgium. A half million dol-

WILLIAM KELLY CANDIDATE FOR CITY COUNCIL

William J. Kelly, vice president of the Orange County Builders' exchange and head of the Kelly Roofing company, 1117 West Fourth street, today announced his candidacy for city councilman from the fourth ward.

Kelly had been mentioned a score of times during the last several weeks as a likely candidate, but friends of the man had announced that he could not be induced to make the race.

"I have had so many persons ask me to make the race during the last several days that I have reconsidered and will take out my nomination papers within a few days," Kelly said today.

He stated that several Santa Ana organizations had sent committees to him, asking that he represent the fourth ward in the April election as a candidate for the council and that much of the support offered him had been unexpected.

Kelly is a native son, not only of California, but of Santa Ana.
He was born here 41 years ago and is the son of Captain William Kelly, pioneer Orange county resident, living in Balboa.

He has been at the head of the roofing company here for the last 20 years, building it up from a small concern to one of the largest of its kind in Orange county. He promises to give the same consideration to city affairs that he has given in making a success of his own business.

Kelly is a member of the Elks and of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club, aside from his connection with the Santa Ana Builders' exchange. He lives at 1117 West Fourth street.

The first intimation that he would be a candidate was given last night, at a meeting of the county builders, in Orange, which Kelly attended.

Kelly will oppose George Mo-Phee, incumbent, who took out his nomination papers this week.

Horse racing has been a favorite pastime in America since colonial days, and there are still in existence a score or more of famous stake races which were inaugurated around the civil war period. Among them are the Travers Stakes at Saratoga, which has been held since 1854; the Saratoga cup races, held since 1865; the Belmont Stakes, held since 1867, and a number of others, equally famous which date from the beginning of the seventies.

Mr. Fernand Buisson, the new president of the French chamber of deputies, was in his day a famous rugby player, one of the best ever produced in France.

Johnny Basham, former European welterweight champion, has forsaken the ring for stage and is said to be making quite a reputation as a comedian.

NEWSPAPER AD IS BEST RADIO
PARTS SELLER

The importance of newspaper advertising as a factor in the distribution of radio merchandise is shown in the recent experience of the Philadelphia Electric company.

Five advertisements, in Philadelphia newspapers, produced, in five weeks, 1575 actual sales of Philco radio socket powers, manufactured by the Philadelphia Storage Battery company. The socket powers are designed to eliminate "A" and "B" batteries in radio equipment. They connect directly with the electric light socket.

Gross income from these sales totaled more than $70,000, with gross profits to the company of approximately $35,000. The advertising cost to the Philadelphia Electric company was $2500. Each ad carried a coupon, which the prospect was asked to fill in and return for details of the offer, which was submitted to the consumer on a partial payment, free installation basis.

More than 1700 of these coupons were received, 1000 from outside the Philadelphia Electric company territory. These represented inquiries from persons who could not get service from the company because they lived outside the company's distribution territory. The coupons were turned over to other Philco dealers in those particular territories, who reported actual sales to about 60 per cent of the inquiries.

Within 48 hours after the first advertisement appeared, the Philadelphia Electric company had received 380 telephone calls, 450 coupons and 600 prospects visited the company's offices. For a product that sold at the time of the campaign for $50, the results from the newspaper space used are considered "remarkable" by officials of the company.

Since that time the Philco Socket powers have been improved, the separate "A" and "B" units have been combined into one unit and the retail price has been reduced to $67.50—another evidence that advertising, by increasing volume of sales, decreases costs of production, influences improvements and benefits the consumer through lower prices.

"The campaign," explained W. J. Geiger, sales manager for electrical appliances of the Philadelphia Electric company, "emphasized beyond question the importance of newspaper advertising in the sale of radio appliances."

PLAN PLAY DAY FOR DELEGATES

Plans for an outing and play day in Orange county, to be arranged as an entertainment for the delegates and residents to the coming state convention of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, to be held in Los Angeles, next June, immediately following the national convention in Oakland, will be discussed at the next regular executive board meeting of the Orange county district, set for March 8 at the Garden Grove grammar school, according to an announcement by Mrs. F. L. Benson, Anaheim corresponding secretary.

The national convention is scheduled for the week beginning May 23. It is expected that more than half the number of the delegates and visitors from eastern, middle western and southern states, will stop in Los Angeles on their way home, to attend the state convention, to be held in that city the first week of June. This circumstance, Orange county P.-T. A. leaders believe, offers a wonderful opportunity to advertise Orange county to thousands of out-of-state visitors by means of an outing and play day. Mrs. C. A. Marcy, Fullerton, second vice president of the district organization, is in charge of the arrangements for entertaining the convention visitors.

Missouri Women Students Glory at Falling Off Their Horses

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 24.—Dedicated to the honor and glory of the future king of England, a Prince of Wales club has been organized at Stephens Junior College for women. The qualification for membership is a fall from a horse. Here is the club's "hunting song."

This learned institution has a new sorority. Composed of those who emulate the acts of royalty. 'Tis called the Prince of Wales club.

And honors the prince indeed. Who every day in a different way Falls off his gallant steed.

The officers of the club have titles, too, taken from the English fox hunt. The master of fox hounds is the presiding officer. The keeper of the brush doesn't keep the fox brush taken at the kill, but guards the whiskbroom to dust the backs of the fallen riders.

The whip keeps the group of riders together.

Piquet carries traces on her saddle to pull the carry-all out of the mud. Just plain members are "hostlers."

The first time a rider falls from her horse she is called "the fortunate one" and admitted to membership at once.

The second time she falls she must treat the entire club. All the members do their riding and falling in red coats or jackets.

"Moveo et propicio" is the club's motto. It means "I rise and am appeased."

The past grand master of the organization is Rolf Raynor, college riding master.

Eighteen members of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce have been nominated for six positions on the board of directors of the organization, George Raymer, secretary, announced today after the count of the preliminary ballots by a special committee.

Ballots will now be placed in the mails for the selection of the six men of the 18 nominated for the offices, Raymer explained. The result of the election will be announced next week.

The following were nominated: O. H. Barr, Freeman Bloodgood, Gilbert Campbell, C. H. Chapman, I. D. Coffing, B. V. Curry, W. L. Deimling, George Dunton, O. H. Egge, Fred Forgy, Wilbur Getty, Harry Hanson, Sam Hurwitz, Herbert Miller, Carl Mock, Ralph Mosher and G. K. Scovel.

NAVY TO CONSERVE
OIL IN RESERVES

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The future policy of the navy department with respect to its oil holdings will conserve all oil in the naval reserves, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced.

He said an effort will be made to effect agreements with operators of the properties adjoining the Elk Hills field, which include the Standard Oil company of California and the Belridge Oil company.

If the owners will give the government a compensating royalty, it is planned to shut down the 21 oil wells and two gas wells on Elk Hills reserve No. 1. Wilbur said the estimated amount of oil in reserve No. 1 is 2,400,000 barrels, of which about 30 per cent can be obtained by modern recovery methods.

TRAINS AGAIN OPERATED ON SCHEDULE TIME

Through train service, passenger and freight, between Los Angeles and San Diego, was restored today over the Santa Fe lines with the operation of all schedules, including the night trains, according to F. T. Smith, Santa Ana agent of the railroad company.

Service over the San Diego line was suspended for several days, following the rain storm of last month. A temporary shuttle service, involving transfer of passengers at Stuart and Oceanside, was installed as soon as temporary repairs had been effected. Last night, repairs to the big steel bridge over Santa Margarita creek, near Oceanside, were completed.

Night trains, leaving Los Angeles and San Diego, came in on time today. In addition to regular passenger service, there was a brisk movement in the handling of freight for San Diego. The first freight train to go through this morning for the southern city numbered 45 cars, each carrying a capacity load of livestock, perishable and subsistence stores.

Discuss Many Problems
Confronted by Ranchers*ALL-DAY PROGRAM IS BEING ARRANGED*Reactions to New Grading Standards Will Be Reported by McFadden

The ninth annual walnut growers' institute, to be held Saturday, March 5, in the Tustin high school auditorium, will attract 700 growers from all parts of the state, according to reports received by Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg, who has made arrangements for the program. The institute is held annually under the auspices of the inter-county walnut growers' department of the farm bureau and the agricultural extension department.

The program will begin at 10 a. m., and conclude about 5 p. m. At noon, luncheon will be provided by the domestic science and home economics department of Tustin high school. During intervals in the program, music will be offered by Tustin high school glee clubs.

According to J. A. Smiley, of West Orange, who will preside, every talk on the program was requested by some group or district of walnut growers. The significance of nut crop other than walnuts, such as almonds, chestnuts, filberts, pecans and Brazil nuts, competitors in the nut market, will be discussed by Carlyle Thorp, general manager of the California Walnut Growers' association. He will discuss the influence of both foreign and domestic nuts upon the market on the California products.

Problem of codling moth control will be discussed from the entomological aspect and the situation as it faces the walnut grower, the program indicates. Prof. H. J. Quayle, entomologist at the Riverside citrus experiment station, will discuss the results of the codling moth control campaign last year in Southern California. Deputy Horticultural Commissioner W. H. Wright will present his deductions from a study of records submitted by packing houses on the crop last year. Smiley will advance the angle of the growers.

The report of the special committee named by the state growers' association to get the reaction of walnut growers to the new grading standards will be presented by A. J. McFadden, chairman. Other speakers will be County Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg, L. W. Fluharty, farm management demonstrator, agricultural extension service, and W. B. Hooper, specialist in nut culture, agricultural extension service.

STATE OFFICER

Dan Adams, Tustin, who yesterday was appointed state traffic officer.

ADAMS, CRAIG APPOINTED TO TRAFFIC SQUAD

With the appointment, yesterday, of Dan Adams and B. A. Craig as members of the Orange county squad of state traffic officers, Sheriff Sam Jernigan made announcement of the loss of two of his deputies, both well known in the county.

Dan Adams is one of the sheriff's aides to resign, the other being Jimmy Smith. While Adams continues in police work in this county, by virtue of his appointment to the state organization, Smith becomes connected with a Los Angeles automobile concern.

Adams has been a prominent member of the sheriff's force since 1923, when he was appointed to act as bailiff of department 3 of the superior court, later being transferred to outside duty. Craig, the other appointee to the state traffic force, formerly was a city motorcycle officer in Seal Beach.

Appointment of the two men was announced by Inspector Walter P. Greer after Greer was advised by Chairman William Schumacher, of the county board of supervisors, that the appointments would be ratified by the board next week. The supervisors, it is understood, agreed to the appointments in an executive session, late yesterday, although no official recommendation appeared on the records of the meeting.

Deputy Sheriff Smith has taken a position with an automobile agency in Los Angeles and already is engaged with his new duties, in charge of the collection and credit departments of the agency, it is said.

Sheriff Jernigan today expressed regret at the loss of his two deputies, both of whom, he said, re-

BUILDERS ARE ADVISED TO MAKE READY FOR RUSH OF PEOPLE TO PACIFIC COAST

Citing statistics to show that the Pacific coast will be the center of the world's population in 1940 and that Orange county's greatest development will come within the next five years, George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce urged the members of the Orange County Builders' exchange to organize to care for the incoming residents, at the meeting of the organization in the Woman's clubhouse, in Orange, last night.

According to Raymer, the center of the world's population in 1965 was the shores of the Mediterranean sea, in 1905 was on the Atlantic shores of North America, and in 1940 he said it would be on the Pacific shores of the same continent. Raymer developed, as an illustration that the eyes of the world are on Southern California, the fact that Miles Poindexter, ambassador to Peru, at Lima, and five members of his consular staff, and their families are planning to locate in Orange county as soon as their service abroad is terminated. The high ideals of the members of the exchange were lauded by Raymer.

"I'll know my house is built right when I have one built, if I employ a member of the exchange to do the job," he said.

Pledges Co-operation
Raymer promised his co-operation in assisting the exchange members to learn of prospective builders through his office.

Raymer explained to the organization the necessary steps toward reorganization, since it has withdrawn from the Los Angeles Builders' exchange. Following his explanation, Jules Markel, president, appointed a committee consisting of Walter Sorenson, William Tway and M. Masters, to arrange for adoption of the constitution of the national organization of builders and to compose suitable by-laws applicable to the local order.

Markel reviewed a building ordinance now before the state legislature and urged that the support of the various members be given it. The exchange voted $5 to assist in defraying the expenses of a lobbying committee which is at Sacramento hoping to put the bill through.

Code Meets Snag
Regarding the progress of the Orange county building code, prepared and fostered by the exchange, Markel reported that it had been adopted by the Santa Ana board of trustees, but that, due to the expense of publishing the code, the necessary three times to make it legally an ordinance, the board had postponed the ordinance until such time as arrangements can be made to meet the publication cost.

He also said that the county supervisors were reviewing the code with the possibility of making it a county ordinance. Sam Heckart, treasurer, reported that the exchange treasury now boasts the sum of $576.29, as against $245.97 on February 1.

Heckart, who is chairman of a committee to consider a change of location of the exchange office, reported that his committee was unprepared to make a report.

Gene Douglas, secretary-manager of the exchange, was authorized to utilize the east wall of the exchange office for a display space for business cards of members of the exchange.

Another feature of the cut-outs is the group arranged especially for the windows. Here one sees little black Sambo, beloved of children; Little Red Riding Hood, the frog who would a-wooing go, and others.

Miss Randall announced that the book reading contest had closed February 28, and that prizes would be awarded the winners in the near future.

Santa Ana Girl Wins Honors at Oberlin College

Miss Virginia Helen Thatcher, former honor student at the Santa Ana polytechnic high school and now a freshman at Oberlin college, Ohio, is living up to her reputation for scholarship gained in high school, according to word received from friends who also are attending the eastern college.

Miss Thatcher's name was included in the first 10 of high ranking freshmen published following the conclusion of the first semester. Miss Thatcher is the daughter of Mrs. Edith W. Thatcher, 508 East Chestnut street.

While in high school, Miss Thatcher was president of the Girls' league, editor in chief of the school year book, the Ariel, and an honor student during her entire course. She was graduated in 1925.

Miss Thatcher is attending the eastern college in preference to one nearer home because her parents and her sisters attended the same school.

CHARACTERS OF
JUNIOR LIBRARY

Curly Locks and the three bears, little Miss Muffet, Old King Cole, Bo-Peep, Cinderella, Red Riding Hood, Puss in Boots, Alice in Wonderland, and many other famous characters of Mother Goose and fairy tale days are to be found in the junior department of the city library.

For some time past, Miss Helen Randall, head of the junior department, has been busy with scissors and paints and the results are to be seen in the many cut-outs, representing famous characters in childhood fiction.

The cut-outs have been arranged in a frieze around the main room in the junior department, where they have caused much comment among the children, who enjoy them greatly, according to Miss Randall. Miss Randall stated that of late the chief form of amusement among the children is to find their favorite characters in the frieze in order to see how nearly the character resembles the imagined one.

PREMIUM LIST FOR 1927 FAIR IS DISCUSSED*Suggestions for Changes in Various Departments Are Made at Grove Meeting

What was described as the most enthusiastic meeting of department heads in the history of the Orange County Fair association was held last night in Garden Grove, where the exposition executives gathered to discuss the 1927 fair premium list. Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, chairman of the premium list committee, presided.

A suggestion was made that the department hitherto known as "educational" be called the school department. The department is under the general chairmanship of Mrs. A. P. Nelson, of Santa Ana, and will be directly in charge of Miss Hazel Nell Bemis, of the Santa Ana public schools.

George Kellogg, of Yorba Linda, who will again have charge of the agricultural department, asked the board of directors to double the amount of prizes in that division. Kellogg said that he wished to especially encourage the entries of complete displays by individual growers.

Raymond Ellis, assistant farm advisor, who will be in charge of the junior fair, said that members of the boys' and girls' agricultural clubs are making elaborate plans for the 1927 fair. The Boy Scouts will arrange a model camp in miniature forest, according to the report by Roland Dye, Orange county Boy Scout executive.

Hubert Howell, of Santa Ana, and C. C. Clark, of Fullerton, in charge of the poultry and rabbit divisions, said a few changes would be made in their departments.

Dr. R. A. Cushman, Z. B. West and Harold Pickering, in charge of the dog show, announced that the American Kennel association had awarded Orange county September 9 and 10 for a display to be held under the auspices of the association.

Mrs. Kelsey expressed herself as very much pleased with the results of the meeting and predicted that the fair board of directors would approve many of the suggestions made by the department heads.

Clyde Downing Is

Clyde Downing, president of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, member of the Santa Ana Round Table and international counselor for Round Table International, was the principal speaker at the charter banquet of the Redlands club, held there last night.

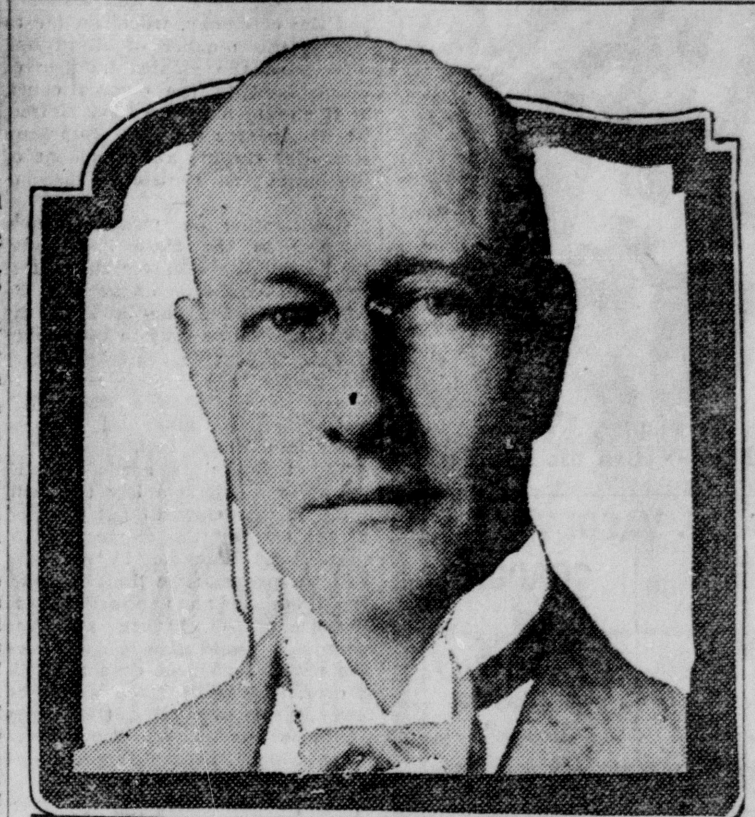

"Building Character from Within" was the subject of the Santa Ana man's address.

Representatives from various clubs in the Southland were present to participate in the charter presentation features. The charter was presented by Sir Knight Herman J. Powell, associate director of Round Table International, and acceptance was by Paul Pritchard, president of the new club. Carlos G. White, international governor of extension, also was a speaker.

Downing was accompanied to Redlands by Mrs. Downing, W. L. Copeland, C. E. Oleson and W. L. Millis.

ANDREWS WILL TELL OF HIS EXPEDITION INTO MONGOLIA

Roy Chapman Andrews, distinguished scientist and leader of the Third Asiatic expedition, which will go down in history as having discovered actual dinosaur eggs. Interesting adventures of the expedition, now on its fourth year in the Mongolian desert, will be related by Dr. Andrews in a lecture in the high school auditorium, Tuesday, March 8, at 2:30 o'clock, under auspices of Santa Ana Ebell society.

Noted Asiatic Explorer to Speak in High School Auditorium

It is through Santa Ana Ebell society, that Santa Ana people will be given the opportunity to hear one of the most interesting men of science in the history of the world, when, next Monday afternoon, March 7, at 2:30 o'clock, Roy Chapman Andrews, Asiatic explorer, will lecture in the high school auditorium.

Andrews, the man who, among other achievements, found the 10-million-year-old dinosaur eggs in Mongolia, has been awarded high honors by the British Society for the Advancement of Science, in addition to those bestowed on him by his own government. The British society, in its list of 10 most important achievements of the last two years, placed the work of Dr. Andrews in discovering the dinosaur eggs as second in importance of all scientific achievements since 1921.

First Place to Einstein
It is of pertinent interest that first place was given Einstein for his researches in the theory of relativity, and third place to Dr. Branting, of Canada, for his discovery of insulin, for treatment for diabetes.

The Third Asiatic expedition, under the personal leadership of Dr. Andrews, last fall completed its third year of explorations and research, and Dr. Andrews returned for a lecture tour, at the close of which he will go back to Mongolia to continue the search for evidence of prehistoric life and primitive man.

The three favorite lecture themes of Dr. Andrews are "Hunting the Bones of Adam," "Lifting the Veil from Mysterious Mongolia" and "Where the Dinosaur Laid Its Eggs," each dealing with experiences on the Gobi desert and each pictorially illustrated with motion pictures taken during the course of the expedition.

A discovery of the party which is of even greater interest and importance than that of the dinosaur eggs, was the finding of remains of a primitive human culture of the late Paleolithic or older Stone Age, in thousands of flint flakes, old fireplaces, arrow points and spear heads, all of beautiful Jasper or agate.

Skull of Largest Mammal
Fully as sensational was the discovery of the skull of the largest mammal that ever trod the earth, the now-famous Baluchitherium skull, and also the finding of what is considered to be the ancestor of prehistoric creatures that once roamed the North American continent.

The expedition expects to be away for a period exceeding six years, three of which have been completed, with work well under way on the fourth. One of the important facts

That a great amount of good can be accomplished in Americanization work through music was the statement of Benjamin Pierson, state music chairman, in an address Monday night, before the newly organized Elsieidd of Orange county, members of which met at the Y. M. C. A. for a banquet.

The banquet was presided over by Miss Adelaide Proctor, of Orange, district chairman. Miss Proctor announced the various numbers on the program, which included community singing, led by Leon Eckles; cello numbers, by Edward Burns, of Anaheim, accompanied by Mrs. McCullah, of Anaheim; songs, by Robert Brown, who was accompanied by Ione Tunnison Peek, and the introduction of various noted guests.

Speakers included D. C. Clamford, of the Santa Ana Conservatory of Music; Miss Keyes, president of the Orange County Music Teachers' association; Mrs. McCullah, Clyde Downing, president of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce; Harry Hanson, Mac O. Robbins and Alexander Stewart, an out of town guest.

Join in Plea for Change in Present Span Plans

As a result of agitation directed specifically to the Santa Fe railroad bridge northeast of Olive, the county supervisors late yesterday took steps to urge rebuilding of recently washed-out bridges with steel spans, with an eye to future flood avoidance.

District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., was instructed by the board to draw up a resolution for adoption by the supervisors, asking the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroad companies to adopt this policy in connection with replacement of bridges along the Santa Ana river, Santiago creek and other streams in this county. Several such bridges were washed out or damaged by the storm of several weeks ago. In some instances, they are said to have been responsible for overflow on adjacent property.

Two Resolutions
When the supervisors met yesterday, they had before them copies of two resolutions relating to the Santa Fe bridge northeast of Olive. One came from the Olive-West Orange protection district, the other from the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce. Both were addressed to the Santa Fe Railroad company and advocated rebuilding that bridge with steel spans on the north side of the river as well as the south side, where the steel spans had been placed before the storm.

In a note to the supervisors, accompanying the resolution, Secretary K. V. Wolff, of the Olive-West Orange protection district, pointed out that, had the bridge in question been equipped with steel spans on the north side as well as on the south, water pressure that accumulated on the north side would have been relieved, instead of washing out two tiers of piling, as it did. As proof of this contention, it further was pointed out that as soon as the piling gave way, leaving an opening 36 feet wide, the flood receded one foot within an hour. Also, it was noted, the wall of water thus released was felt on the Anaheim side of the river 30 minutes later, with the result that it broke through protection walls there.

The protection district suggests that if the bridge be rebuilt with not less than four 60-foot steel spans, future danger would be eliminated. Although it concedes that the line concerned, that between Orange and Atwood, is only a branch and may not be regarded by the railroad company as of the importance of a main line, the Olive organization holds that its homes and ranches are of importance and should not be jeopardized by bridges that form dams and cause the river to overflow.

Gets $600,000 Business
It points out, in addition, that the Santa Fe's branch line through Olive received a gross revenue of $600,000 from citrus shipments

PASTOR FAVORS ALTERATIONS IN MARRIAGE LAW

Any measure that will set a fixed time, not less than five days, between the filing of an application for a marriage license and its issuance, or, between the issuance and the ceremony, would go far to reduce the number of ill-advised marriages, the greater number of which land in the divorce court, in the opinion of the Rev. Moffett Rhodes, pastor of the Surpgeon Memorial church, and president of the Santa Ana Ministerial association.

Commenting on measures now pending in the state legislature, the Santa Ana minister thought it futile to complain about the divorce evil when the laws of the state lend themselves to easy marriages. Today, he remarked, there are people who stand ready to marry on less than a week's acquaintance, or after an evening spent in a dance hall.

"What California needs to curb the divorce evil is a law that will make it less easy to get married on the spur of the moment, or in a spirit of bravado. A measure, fixing a proper time limit between the filing of an application, the issuance of the license and the ceremony, would give the prospective parties sufficient time to think it over, and while there would be fewer hasty marriages, there also would be less business for the divorce court," he concluded.

RIVERSIDE—Romance of the navel orange will be told in unique publicity planned by James Davis, secretary of the County Chamber of Commerce, who is sending out fruit from the parent tree to selected eastern trade centers. There are about 200 oranges from the famous tree, which Davis is packing in separate fancy wrappings. They will be displayed in such places as Wanmaker's store, New York; Marshall Field store, Chicago; the White House, Washington; and other places where the public will be attracted to view the fruit; read a brief history of the tree and see a photo of it. The tree from which Riverside's vast fortune in navels descended, is now more than 50 years of age, but bore a fair crop this year, which was exhibited at the National Orange show at San Bernardino.

VENTURA—An increase in the acreage planted to sugar beets in Ventura county, totaling as much as 4000 to 5000 acres, is a result of the abundant rains and the resulting prospect for a heavy crop. Last year the county beet acreage was 11,000 and a ready 12,000 acres have been assured for the coming season, said John Rooney, manager of the Oxnard plant of the American Beet-Sugar company. Farmers with acreage which might be used for additional lima bean planting are reported to be dubious about using it for the purpose in view of market conditions and the danger of overproduction, and are likely to plant beets instead, thus bringing the county's total sugar area this season as high as 14,000 or 15,000 acres.

CHINO—Preparations have been completed for war on marching armies of Argentine ants which threaten the citrus groves, according to announcement made by County Horticultural Commissioner John P. Coy. A total of 300,000 paper cups, each filled with a poisonous solution, will be distributed among citrus growers in the hope that the ant armies may be halted before their inroads cause too great a foothold in the county. That the preventive measures will prove beneficial to the entire citrus belt is the belief of the horticultural head, who stated today that armies, each numbering several million ants, are a serious menace to the citrus industry.

CORONA—On St. Patrick's day two years ago Corona and Elsinore held a joint celebration to jolify over the completion of the last link of paving connecting the two cities. Now there is talk of having a celebration to fitly celebrate the completion of the Corona and Santa Fe railway in which Elsinore will be asked to join. Assurance is made by officials in charge that trains will be running over the new road before March 17, hence the proposed festivity over the Santa Fe on Saint Patrick's day. The work of construction has been speeded up recently because of the recent flood washout of the company's line between Perris and Elsinore Junction, terminating service to that territory via Riverside and the Box Springs grade.

AT THE THEATERS

WEST COAST-WALKER

Of great interest to local theater patrons is the announcement that the film version of David Belasco's outstanding stage triumph, "The Return of Peter Grimm," will begin a two-day engagement at the West Coast-Walker theater tonight.

Alec B. Francis, who knows no peers in the realm of character actors, plays the title role. The selection of Francis was indeed a happy one. Critics who have previewed the production declare that the veteran character actor rises to great heights as Peter Grimm.

An interesting sidelight is that Francis has always cherished the opportunity of bringing to the screen the role made famous on the speaking stage by David Warfield.

Janet Gaynor, fascinating little ingenue who has appeared with much success in "The Johnstown Flood," "The Midnight Kiss" and other Fox Films productions, and Richard Walling, handsome young juvenile who won fame in "The Midnight Kiss" and "Marriage License?" plays opposite Janet.

MURPHY'S COMEDIANS

"The Unwanted Child," a powerful melo-dramatic play in four acts, is playing this week at Murphy's theater at Orana.

While the plot of the story is fundamentally of a very dramatic nature, the construction of the play is well balanced, the suspense element being gripping and the comedy plentiful.

The play is well staged and forcibly sends home a lasting moral lesson.

CYPRESS PLANS FLOOD DISTRICT

CYPRESS, March 2.—Formation of a flood control district for the purpose of caring for the overflow on Coyote creek was discussed at last night's meeting of the Cypress Farm center. It is believed that Buena Park will join with Cypress in case it is decided to organize the district.

The committee appointed to confer with officials of the Union Oil company relative to damage caused when the company's 80,000 barrel tank at Atwood was wrecked during the recent storm, reported that the members had been unable to secure an audience with the proper officials. The committee plans to try again this week and will make a report later.

The center meeting was opened with an Irish pot-luck dinner. An Irish program was enjoyed. C. L. Barnett rendered numbers on a saw.

Native Sons and Daughters Delay Visit to Museum

The visit to the Jonathan Tibbett museum, in Riverside, which was to be made next Sunday by Orange county members of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, has been postponed for a week, it was announced today.

The change in the date for the trip was made because of the fact that Tibbett will be outside of the state next Sunday.

Proposals for the location of the relics in the Tibbett collection in a museum projected for Orange county caused the members of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West to plan the visit.

SALES MANAGER FOR E. K. WOOD CLUB SPEAKER

"The way to have a good competitor is to be one."

This was the opening and closing declaration of Kenneth Smith, of Los Angeles, general sales manager of the E. K. Wood Lumber company, in an address before the Rotary club of Santa Ana, yesterday noon, at St. Ann's Inn.

"Relations Between Competitors" was Smith's subject. The meeting of the Rotary club was in charge of the business methods committee of the club, B. V. Curry, manager of Townner Manufacturing company, presiding.

"Unfriendly relations between men and firms in the same line of business," said Smith, "nearly always grow out of unfriendly acts. Greed brings about unsound business conditions. Price-cutting was always beat prices down to the margin of profit of the cheapest commodity, with quality forgotten. Unsound business conditions make adequate service unlikely and often impossible. The real basis for increasing one's business volume lies in service rendered, and in work instead of talk."

Next Tuesday, Santa Ana Rotarians will hear Jason Westerfield, of the New York stock exchange, who will speak on "Wall Street of the Future and Fiction." W. B. Williams, Alex. Brownridge and Charles P. Kinyon are the committeemen in charge.

"It seems that my office is no more than a training school for good men. We get them here, train them and then they are offered more money than I am authorized by the state law to pay and we lose them," he said. "Both of these men were splendid officers and I dislike to lose them."

"I am not going to be in a hurry to appoint successors for Adams and Smith," the sheriff said. "I want to be sure that the men I appoint are the men I want and men who will reflect credit on my organization. The sheriff's office must stand high with the citizens and I will not make appointments until I find the men that I feel will be able to work for the people as they should."

Steel Bridges Are Urged By Board

from that point during 1926, which would indicate that Olive was worthy of some consideration from the railroad company.

In adopting the views expressed in the resolutions, the county supervisors decided to include the Southern Pacific with the Santa Fe in its advocacy of steel spans to eliminate flood traps. Bridges of the Southern Pacific company, notably that across Santiago creek in Santa Ana, were known to have become clogged by debris, to the detriment of the bridges and to the risk of adjacent property, officials said.

USE POISON IN SPEEDING UP PLANT GROWTH

NEW YORK, March 2.—Possibility of speeding up nature, through careful introduction of chemical elements formerly considered injurious to plants, is brought out in a report to the Engineering Foundation here by Dr. J. C. McHargue of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington, Ky.

Taller trees may result, more raw materials may be produced and new sources of fuel uncovered as effects of Dr. McHargue's researches into this phase of plant life.

"Until recent years," Dr. McHargue reports, "it has been taught that only ten chemical elements were necessary for the normal growth of crops, these being carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium, sulphur and iron."

"Research has shown that at least other elements, although occurring in minute quantities, are important in life processes. These are manganese, copper, zinc, boron, barium, strontium, iodine and arsenic."

Too Much Is Poisonous
"These have been found in many kinds of plants. Although they are essential to life in right forms and quantities, they are poisonous in excess or other forms."

Manganese, for instance, is widely distributed in nature as iron, and it was found that one one-hundredth-thousandth part or less of this manganese sulphate decidedly stimulated the growth of barley seedlings. Larger quantities were poisonous.

Dr. McHargue has tested corn, wheat, oats, soy beans, cow peas, garden peas, garden beans, tomatoes, onions, cucumbers, spinach and lettuce, with manganese sulphate and compounds of the other elements. He discovered marked stimulation in growth of the plants when the compounds were not used in excess.

Benefit to Industry
"Copper sprays increase the yield of potatoes and favorably influence their composition as well as controlling insects and diseases," he points out.

Dr. McHargue looks even further than agriculture for the benefits from his research work.

"Knowledge being gained," he explains, "is of importance not only in agriculture and horticulture for improving quality, increasing yield, producing a food supply which contains the vitamins factors and lowering the costs of vegetables, fruits, grains and forage crops, but possibly also in engineering and industry, for quickening the growth of timber, increasing supplies of raw materials and producing new sources of fuel by converting sun energy into mechanical power."

Federal Farm F-A-C-T-S

Lower cash wheat and corn, higher hogs and cattle, steady butter and poultry and lower egg prices seem most probable during the next 30 days, according to the forecasts of the department of agricultural economics at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

The development of new uses for flax calls attention to potential industries which would go far toward utilizing much of the millions of tons of flax straw now wasted on American farms, declare grain investigators of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Imports of butter, cheese and condensed milk into the United States last year exceeded exports by the equivalent of more than 500,000,000 pounds of milk.

Purebred bulls are improving the dairy industry on the island of Porto Rico.

One hundred distinct types of soils are found on Wisconsin farms. This has been revealed through the work of the Wisconsin soil survey which has thoroughly covered about 75 per cent of the state's area, according to W. J. Geib, specialist in charge of the survey.

Cutting corn requires more man labor than any other common method of harvesting this crop, according to J. F. Dowler of the department of rural economics of the Ohio Experiment Station.

Nebraska now has a dozen official c.w. testing associations. The last one to organize is made up almost entirely of farm herds.

There is no curative treatment for fowls infected with tuberculosis and control of the disease depends upon preventive measures, says B. H. Edington, associate in animal husbandry, Ohio Experiment Station.

Better balanced farming will be the slogan of the North Carolina state college for the year of 1927. The college authorities do not favor giving an entire farm over to one crop.

A passenger on a Canadian railroad sneezed so violently that his false teeth flew out the window. A section hand was sent out to search for them. They were found and returned to their owner.

Vaccination for Roup Control Is Recommendation

According to W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor, a scientific study of roup in poultry, one of the most serious fowl diseases, supports the conclusion that proper vaccination is one of the most effective means for reducing this source of loss.

The study was conducted by Dr. George W. Stiles and Dr. Hubert Bunyue, both of the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture. In a recent scientific paper, "Vaccination and Medication for Control of Roup," Doctor Bunyue reports the following conclusions, based on experiments:

Birds about one year old appear to be more susceptible to roup than those two years old or older under the same conditions.

The use of antiseptics in the drinking water (permanganate of potash, and bichloride of mercury in particular) does not appear to have any appreciable curative virtue and very little preventive property.

The local external application of solutions of mercuric iodine, or silver nitrate, is not very effective in the prevention or treatment of roup.

Bacterins prepared from the bacteria involved in outbreaks of roup appear to be effective in the prevention of the disease as well as the treatment of incipient cases, even under unfavorable climatic conditions. Two kinds of bacterins have proved effective, one made from bacteria occurring in a single outbreak and one from infections in a number of outbreaks.

The progress of roup is appreciably influenced by "secondary invaders," meaning bacteria which develop in addition to the chief virus that causes the disease. The use of vaccination in treating a considerable number of poultry flocks affected with roup gave very encouraging results.

LITTLE VALUE IS PLACED IN PLAGUE BATTLE

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The European method of controlling the foot-and-mouth disease by rigid quarantine is relatively ineffective compared with the prompt slaughter of diseased and exposed animals, as practiced in the United States.

European officials with whom American scientists discuss methods of combating foot-and-mouth disease agreed that, when the extent is limited to a small percentage of animals, the slaughter and clean-up method is the only effective one, besides being the most economical.

Study Disease Abroad
The scientists who have recently returned from a year's study of the foot-and-mouth disease in Europe are Dr. Harry W. Schoeningh of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, Dr. Jacob Traub of the University of California and Dr. Peter K. Olitsky of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

The highly infectious nature of the foot-and-mouth virus, its extremely small size, and its ability to escape identification have made the study of foot-and-mouth disease almost an impossible task.

Virus Is Active
The virus is extremely active and dangerous. The organism is too small to be seen by the most powerful microscopes.

The resistance of the virus to strong antiseptics proved surprisingly great. Sixty per cent alcohol kills ordinary bacteria within a minute but it failed to destroy the virus of foot-and-mouth disease in 26 hours.

The men report that the foot-and-mouth disease is one of the most contagious diseases known and their attempts to produce an active artificial infection against foot-and-mouth disease so far have been unsuccessful.

Air Cleaners On Tractors Studied At Recent School

BY W. M. CORY
Assistant Farm Advisor

At the recent series of one-day tractor schools held by the agricultural extension service, the use of air cleaners, oil cleaners and rectifiers were discussed. The experiment station at Davis is becoming known as the official air cleaner testing station as the Nebraska station is recognized as the official tractor horse-power rating testing station.

The forenoon was taken up in illustrating the manner of motor testing and repairing, together with discussions on oils, lubrication and air cleaners. The afternoon at one of the schools the tractor drive shaft horse-power tests were made. The group attending were interested in the manner in which these tests were made and were interested in learning how nearly the tractors in their present condition were delivering their rated horse-power.

Since the tractor is being more economically operated if the load is such as to require approximately its rated capacity, occasional testing would be helpful to the operator to determine the condition in which the machine is in. The use of a dynamometer to determine the pounds pull of different pieces of equipment will give the operator an idea as to the speed in which the tractor should work.

FLORIDA OFFICIALS HERE TO STUDY MARKET METHODS

CODLING MOTH CONTROL BY ELIMINATING FIRST BROOD RECOMMENDED AT COLLEGE

Control of codling moth through the elimination, as far as possible, of the first brood, by the calyx spray, was recommended at a joint conference of entomologists of the College of Agriculture and the State Department of Agriculture, held at the University of California.

The first spray, it was pointed out, not only is more effective; but if the work is well done it will not be necessary to spray so heavily for later broods, thus avoiding spray residue difficulties. The recommendations of the conference are:

The Calyx Spray
The calyx spray is the most important spray in codling moth control. It should be applied when the petals have nearly all fallen. If the application has been unsatisfactory because of windy or rainy weather, or if there is irregularity in the blooming time of different varieties, or if worm control in the past has been especially unsatisfactory, a second calyx spray should be applied before the calyx lobes close. Use an abundance of spray and direct the force of the spray against the blossoms, using spray rods and a tower if necessary.

Use standard (acid) arsenate of lead at the rate of two to three pounds of powder or four to six pounds of paste to one hundred gallons of water. In the fog belt, near the coast where arsenical injury occurs basic arsenate of lead should be used at the rate of three or four pounds to one hundred gallons of water.

Cover Sprays for First Brood
The first cover spray should be made before any worms begin hatching. If the weather is warm after the trees bloom the first cover spray should be completed by two weeks after the calyx spray and by three weeks if the weather should remain cool. Spray thoroughly and apply an abundance of spray for the purpose of completely covering the leaves and bark as well as the fruit.

The second cover spray and subsequent sprays should be applied at intervals of about two weeks when the fruit is growing rapidly. Late sprays should be made only where infestations are of sufficient importance to warrant further attention. Special advice should be obtained from competent authority before such applications are made.

Banding for First Brood Worms
Not all first brood worms will be killed by the spray. Some will escape regardless of how thoroughly the spraying has been done. A large percentage of these can be captured and destroyed by placing burlap bands around the trunks of the trees about May 20. The bands should be folded to three thicknesses and may be held in place by a small nail. The bands should be examined and the worms destroyed every ten days throughout the summer. This should not be neglected. Rough bark should be scraped from the trunks before banding in order to cause more worms to go under the bands.

In addition to the spray program the following control measures are necessary: Orchard sanitation such as destruction of windfalls; scraping the bark of rough limbs; thinning of fruit for the purpose of removing infested fruit from the trees, and breaking of clusters so that spraying may be effectively done; proper pruning to facilitate spraying; packing house and dry yard sanitations, such as proper construction and screening of packing sheds, treatment of apple boxes and sacks; destruction of cull fruit and waste products.

PROBLEMS OF THE SOIL

Q. I would like to know something about growing chestnuts. I live in the mountains and am told that chestnuts can be grown here. What varieties should one get and where can they be obtained? At what age will chestnuts begin to bear?—Mrs. M. M.

A. Due to the fact that American chestnuts in all the eastern and southern states are dying by reason of chestnut blight, there will be a good market for all the nuts produced in this state.

The chestnut naturally prefers a light gravity soil, deep and well drained, but will do well in heavy soil if the latter is also deep and well drained. Grafted trees are preferred to seedlings as they are true to type and as a rule come into bearing earlier, or when four or five years of age.

Nurseries do not carry a large variety of chestnuts. One of the best for California planting is the Spanish. The Japanese chestnuts, although large, are only of fair quality, and are said to be not very hardy and are therefore not recommended for general planting in localities subject to late frosts. The European sorts, Italian, French and Spanish, are similar in type, having had the same origin. The American sweet chestnut is of the highest quality, although the nuts are small.

Hybrids between European and American varieties are perhaps, all things considered, the best for planting. Named varieties of these hybrids are Champion, Progress, Fuller and Rochester.

Some doubt exists as to the proper pollination of one tree by itself, hence it is safer to plant several together for cross-pollination purposes. Local nurseries probably do not carry chestnuts except on special order, but they can be obtained from any of the large northern or Southern California nurseries that specialize in fruit and nut trees.

Q. Is it necessary to dip sweet potatoes in some disinfectant solution before planting in the seed bed. If so what is it and how is it done? Also, should the seed bed itself be given a treatment, and with what?—J. S. S.

A. Sweet potatoes should be dipped in a corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury) solution 10 minutes before placing in the seed bed. Use this chemical at the rate of one ounce to eight gallons of water. In preparing the solution add an equal amount or more of common salt to the corrosive sublimate and dissolve with hot water. The salt helps to dissolve the chemical. In order to keep the solution up to its original strength it will be necessary to add an extra half ounce of corrosive sublimate with each 100 pounds of seed treated, with enough water to bring the amount in the vat up to the original volume. The sweet potatoes can be planted in the hotbed directly after removing from the dip and dainage.

The hotbed should be disinfected each season. It is necessary, of course, to use fresh sand or earth also, discarded the old. Spray the inside of the frame thoroughly with strong formaldehyde solution or blue one before bringing in new earth. One pint of formaldehyde to 20 or 30 gallons of water will disinfect properly as will one pound of bluestone dissolved in 25 gallons of water.

CITRUS EXPERT TO TEACHER AT SUMMER CLASS

RIVERSIDE March 2.—Robert W. Hodgson, associate professor of subtropical horticulture in the University of California and one of the best known citrus experts in the southwest is to offer one of the principal courses given in the summer session in subtropical horticulture which is to be held at the Citrus Experiment station located in Riverside, June 25 to August 6.

The course offered by Professor Hodgson will deal with citrus fruit culture in California. The course will be developed around the seven essentials to success in the citrus industry in this state, and will include instruction in the following subjects: Varieties of citrus fruits, propagation methods, establishing the orchard, cultivation, irrigation, fertilization, pruning, methods of harvesting, packing house operation, and marketing.

Professor Hodgson was for some years farm advisor in Los Angeles county, during which time he came in close contact with leaders in the citrus industry and with hundreds of citrus growers who attended his lectures and demonstrations. He is author of numerous bulletins and circulars dealing with different phases of the citrus industry published by the college of agriculture.

Among the important investigations which he has conducted are studies of the June drop of navel oranges, the development of a method of citrus pruning which is widely used at the present time, and the working out of a simple and practicable system of applying the efficiency analysis to the citrus orchard.

Students attending the summer session will also have the opportunity to hear Professor Hodgson discuss the contrasts between the citrus industries of California and Florida. He has had the privilege of judging fruit at the South Florida fair, Tampa, for the past two years. This has enabled him to make a survey of conditions existing in Florida in regard to citrus and other subtropical fruits, so his practical observations will be thoroughly up-to-date.

ESTIMATES ON FROST DAMAGE PROVE CORRECT

"We are frank to state that you in California have done the most to maintain and improve standards of quality of citrus fruits supplied the markets, which is the big problem confronting California and Florida together as the producers of America's citrus fruit supply," said L. M. Rhodes, state market commissioner of Florida, addressing the board of directors of the California Fruit Growers exchange. Mr. Rhodes and Nathan Mayo, director of the Florida department of agriculture, were guests at the regular meeting of Exchange directors on February 23 as part of their study of the local industry and of the marketing facilities and by-products methods employed by California growers.

The Florida officials expressed the friendly attitude of their state toward California, and their desire to co-operate on industry problems, which sentiments were also expressed by President C. C. Teague of the Exchange in welcoming the visitors. They were especially interested in co-operative marketing practices, which they feel would be the salvation of the Florida industry, as it has been for California growers.

"Reports given you by your field manager on the frost damage in Florida were not far from the mark," Mr. Rhodes, who estimated a loss of about 65 per cent of the oranges remaining on the trees and 30 to 35 per cent of the grapefruit. The storm of last fall reduced the Florida crop another one and one-half to two million boxes according to this marketing expert.

The Florida officials stated that they were doing everything possible to keep green fruit and frost damaged fruit from being shipped out of Florida. Before leaving the state they will consult with Director Hecke and the state marketing officials at Sacramento on these problems.

During their visit these Florida citrus men attended the national orange show at San Bernardino, investigated local developments in citrus by-products, and devoted some time to other agricultural activities in Southern California, including a trip to poultry raising districts.

whitewash. This is prepared by dissolving an ounce of strychnine sulphate in three quarts of boiling water. Dissolve one-half pound of laundry starch in one pint of cold water. Pour the starch into the vessel containing the strychnine and boil the mixture until it is clear, then add six ounces of glycerin and stir thoroughly. When cool enough apply to tree trunks with a brush.

Microbes were discovered in 1877 by Anton van Leeuwenhoek, a Hollander.

Therefore, contend they, if she attends the American pulchritude party to which she has been invited, the Fatherland will not be properly represented and the Gretchen of legend will undergo a change of complexion. Caruso, whose weapon was a butcher knife, was quickly arrested and is said by the police to have confessed.

The chief justice, who is chancellor of the institution, told the assemblage that the time had come when the institution can no longer perform its intended function without public support. One of its greatest handicaps, it was said, is the popular misapprehension that the institution is a government agency. RUN GIVEN OUT

Dates and hours when grunion—tiny denizens of the deep who annually provide both hours of amusement and disappointment to Orange county sportsmen and sportswomen—may be expected to "run" along the coast-line were announced today by Victor Walker, local sporting goods dealer.

Each year as spring approaches, newspapers, vacation bureaus and other sources of information are flooded with inquiries regarding the time when the elusive but delectable midgits will come to the Orange county coast-line. Now that the itinerary of the silvery tidbits has been made public and the grunion fishermen may paste the dates in conspicuous places and rest in peace.

OLD GOLF RIVALS TO BE OPPONENTS AGAIN

WALTER
SARAZEN

Rivals for many years, Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen are to face each other on Florida links soon.

Especially interesting will this, their fifth meeting, be because of a recent assertion by Sarazen himself that the dapper Mr. Hagen was one man he could beat.

The peerless Walter laughed heartily when he heard of Sarazen's statement and asserted that it was all bosh! Gene hasn't his goat. No one has, he claims.

Whether Walter knows whereof he speaks or whether Gene is the lad to be believed in this controversy will be determined by their match in Florida.

It is an old rivalry, this one between two of the greatest golfers in America. Four times have they met before, and only once was Hagen victor.

Sarazen is favored to beat Hagen again this time.

He is favored to win because of the poor showing that Hagen made in the Texas tournaments and in his match with Harry Cooper.

RUTH REACHES GOTHAM IN $100,000 CONTRACT QUEST

NEW YORK, March 2.—Babe Ruth came back east today to demand that the New York Yankees make him baseball's first $100,000 a year man.

As the Twentieth Century Limited bore the home run hitter down the Hudson to New York, the sport world awaited with friendly interest the impending struggle between two of baseball's most colorful figures.

On the one hand was Ruth, who came from a boys' industrial school in Baltimore to be the greatest single box office attraction and, in the opinion of many of his devoted admirers, the most valuable all-around player in either league.

On the other hand was Colonel Jake Ruppert, brewer and baseball magnate, a genius for spending money in the right direction to turn out world champion baseball teams—also a genius for keeping his team on the right side of the ledger and not throwing money away.

Ruth arrived at the Grand Central at 9:40 a. m., and was met by a crowd of 500 friendly, jostling fans, who shouted greetings.

Babe went at once to Arlie McGovern's gymnasium and telephoned to St. Vincent's hospital, where Mrs. Ruth is ill. The crowd followed to the gymnasium.

FORMER H. B. BOXER NOW
RING KING OF AUSTRALIA

Ray Moore, Huntington Beach pugilist, is now the middleweight champion of Australia, according to word received by his brother, Burt Moore, of Long Beach.

Moore first started in the boxing racket about four years ago, making his debut in the old Huntington Beach arena. Kid Mexico was operating the oil town arena at that time and Moore, who showed great promise from the outset, was his prize pupil.

Later, Moore graduated into the bigger money class, becoming a main eventer at Wilmington, the Chief Petty Officers' club at San Pedro and Hollywood.

He went to Australia about a year ago, found 20-round bouts more suited to his style and achieved such prominence that he was matched with Lew Edwards, the middleweight champion, and stopped him in six rounds.

Moore writes his brother that he has received offers from continental promoters and probably will box in England and France this summer.

MARCY HEIGHTS OWNER IS

Marcy believes the association

SULLIVAN WILL CAPTAIN POLY
FIVE IN 1928

As the last gesture of the 1927 cage season, the basketball cohorts that represented Santa Ana in the Coast Preparatory league schedule just ended, met yesterday at the call of Coach Bill Foote and chose Warren Sullivan captain of next year's team by a unanimous vote.

Sullivan played guard on this year's team and developed into one of the most dangerous players on the squad under Foote's coaching. While he was a good defensive player, he also was a threat offensively by his deadly accuracy in making long shots from the running guard position.

On one team or another, Sullivan has represented the Santa Ana high school since he entered the Poly institution. Last year he was a regular on the Class B aggregation.

Prospects for next year's season are none too bright with a large number of this year's regulars graduating. Four lettermen will be eligible, however, and a number of promising recruits will report from this winter's weight organizations.

Returning lettermen will be Eric Twist, forward; Walter Jordan, center; Myron Dungan, guard, and Captain Warren Sullivan.

In Reiter, a new sophomore student recently enrolled here from Fullerton, Coach Foote sees a promising player, possibly one of the best on the squad.

Nine members of this year's squad will receive monograms. Five of them are graduating seniors. Chester Siegel, versatile Poly athlete won his third letter entitling him to an Ariel sweater.

The others are Sullivan, Jordan, Twist, Dungan, Julius Bordon, Lawrence Hogue, Charles Ehrhorn and Judson Riley.

Derby Next Big Attraction for Tijuana Track

TIJUANA, Mexico, March 2.—The Tijuana Derby, the three-year-old classic of the west and ranking next in importance to the Cofreth Handicap in the winter race meet here, will be run next Sunday.

The derby will be run over a distance of a mile and an eighth and has a purse value of $25,000 added. The winner will take all entrance and starting fees as well as the $20,000 winner's end.

BOWLING

Except for three postponed matches, the Santa Ana Business Men's Bowling league will be completed with games Friday evening at the Bowlers' Inn. The Jerome-Hendrie quintette forged into first place last week and by taking four points from the Miles Shoes company tomorrow night can clinch the championship.

The Certified Car market, the West Coast-Walker theater and the Chick Inn/Five are the only serious contenders.

Secretary Harry Gaspar is busily engaged computing individual averages for the myriad of trundlers in the Business Men's and Booster circuits and these will be published in this column as soon as final figures are available.

The Harold Lloyds, famous Major league team of Los Angeles, will leave next week for Peoria, Ill., to compete in the American Bowling Congress.

Penny Jones, alley manager at the Anaheim Bowling club, has announced an open singles tournament for his house Sunday night.

Al McGaugh's 850 team of Belvedere Gardens is the latest to

500 YOUNG ATHLETES TO COMPETE FOR TITLE AT POLY FIELD ON MARCH 19

More than 500 budding athletes from at least eight institutions will compete for honors in Santa Ana Saturday March 19, when the annual Orange county grammar school track and field meet is staged at Poly field. The events will be run off entirely in the afternoon. Suitable trophies will be awarded the winning schools and ribbons will be presented to athletes placing first, second, third or fourth.

Large entry lists from Julia C. Lathrop and Frances E. Willard junior high schools of Santa Ana, and grammar schools in Garden Grove, Tustin, Orange, Fullerton, Anaheim and Huntington Beach already have been promised. Free lance entries also are expected from San Juan Capistrano, Brea and other small centers.

Events in Four Classes
Events will be conducted in four classifications—midgits, juniors, intermediates and seniors. Midgits and juniors will compete in similar events while the intermediates and seniors will face a different and more difficult test.

Santa Ana junior high schools will be allowed to use only their seventh and eighth grade students in this particular competition but later in the season Coaches Ferris Scott and L. W. Archer will set a date for a dual meet in which there will be no limitations, each institution being allowed to enter every capable athlete available.

The Orange county grammar school competition probably gets more boys into organized athletics than any other event. Four separate rate track meets are really being held at the same time but that school which has the greatest number of points earned by all four classes combined is considered the winner.

Use "4-Point" System
The four classifications are based on the "four-point" system of grade, age, height and weight and is similar to the Class A, B and C divisions in the high schools.

Each class division has four events and a relay.

Juniors and Midgits compete in the 50 yard dash, running broad jump, high jump, soccer throw for distance and a six-man, 300-yard relay.

Seniors and intermediates enter the 70 yard dash, high jump, broad jump, basketball throw for distance and a six-man, 420-yard relay race.

Delaney Fights
Blood Poisoning

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 2.—Jimmy Delaney, widely known St. Paul light heavyweight boxer, today was still waging the hardest battle of his career—a fight for life against blood poisoning.

Hospital authorities this morning said Delaney rested well last night but his condition was still serious.

Hudkins, Colima
In Hard Workouts

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Ace Hudkins and Bert Colima, who meet Saturday night in the big open air card at Wrigley field, will go through strenuous workouts today and tomorrow and then taper off for the bout that looms as the biggest "natural" staged in California since the advent of legalized boxing.

STINSON'S INJURY IS BLOW

Five lettermen, Eugene Duke and J. Rodriguez, sprinters; Nelson Barry, jumper; Gardner Wilmarth, vaulter, and Al Stinson, vaulter, are eligible at Huntington Beach but Stinson, the leading bamboo-avator in the county loop, suffered a broken collar bone last week and may not be able to compete this year. Ed Sommers, Anthony Mollica, Harold Watson and Albert Koenig are other promising candidates.

Leading Tustin track candidates include Marshall Dunkin and Elmer Rittner, weights; Charles Lewis and Russell Hind, dashes; Wayne Runnells, distances, and Richard Ford, jumps.

BRONCS TRIM SAINTS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—Coming from behind in the last minutes of play, University of St. Mary's basketballers nosed out St. Clara's college last night, 81 to 79. The annual three-game series now stands at one-all.

Little Colonel

Entry blanks will be issued here soon for the annual Los Angeles City tournament, which has always attracted a generous supply of local trundlers. This is the second biggest event of its kind on the Pacific Coast and many bowlers who won't be able to roll in the P. C. B. C. at Oakland are anxious to test their skill in the next best "big time" stuff.

Livsey's and the Olds Six Commercial league quintettes, both in the running for title laurels, swing into action again tonight, the Live sey's going against The First National Bank team of Redondo Beach and the auto men traveling to Redondo Beach.

McTigue's Comeback Fistic Sensation

VETERAN FACES JACK SHARKEY ON TOMORROW

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 2.—"Wait until that fellow gets a little experience. He's only forty-some now and when he gets about 60 he ought to grab the championship." Dan Morgan, wise old veteran of the corner, said in discussing the comeback of Mike McTigue, who risks his block here tomorrow night against Jack Sharkey, in one of Tex Rickard's elimination bouts.

The record books, seldom accurate, credit the "Moike" with 35 years, he admits a little more but the chances are that he actually is about 42 years of age.

Consistent to the shelf of the ring when he was knocked out by Jack Delaney, the light heavyweight champion, McTigue refused to take the shelf. He talked Jimmy Johnston into believing that he was not through and told Johnston to get him some fights.

Johnston is an old timer in the game and he doesn't believe in wasting time by coddling a fighter and he started looking for some tough ones for McTigue.

Kayoed Three in Row
The old battler then proceeded to knock out King Solomon, Billy Vadebeck and Soldier King and he gave Johnny Risko a sound trouncing. That isn't an imposing list of victims but they were being given all the sidewalk when the big shots met them on the street.

McTigue was then in a tough spot. Men his weight wouldn't have anything to do with him and his 160 pounds didn't qualify him for the heavyweights but he had some confidence and he wanted to work.

"I see where Rickard has that Berlenbach in his heavyweight tournament," McTigue remarked to Johnston. "He's not even a good light heavyweight. Get me that Berlenbach and I'll knock him out." Rickard laughed when Johnston suggested a Berlenbach-McTigue match.

"Are you tired of the old fellow? Why get him knocked off?" Rickard asked Johnston but Johnston never has given up without three weeks of argument and he got the match.

Made Short Work of Paul
McTigue made his promise good by knocking out Berlenbach in four rounds with one of the most artistic demonstrations of clean right hand hitting you would want to see.

Now with McTigue and his 40 or more years is campaigning for the light heavyweight championship that he won from Battling Siki in Dublin on St. Patrick's Day and later lost.

START OF $50,000 NEW ORLEANS RACE IN MUD ANKLE-DEEP

Here is a remarkable picture of the start of the recent $50,000 New Orleans handicap, which was won by Collogomer. The mud, regular Louisiana mud, was ankle-deep. It failed to bother the winner much. He led the entries, some twenty-odd, a full length at the finish. The jockey was slightly muddy as he drew in to get his floral wreath, but what does a bit of mud matter to a jockey astride the winner of a $50,000 handicap?

NATIONAL TRACK TITLE FOR THIRD SEASON IN ROW AIM OF CROMWELL, TROY TUTOR

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Dean Cromwell, the champion-maker, is confronted with the task of bringing the third consecutive track and field championship to Southern California. While only 13½ points are left to the Trojans from the 35½ they amassed to win the I. C. A. A. for the second successive time at Boston last May, Cromwell has potentially a team that will rate with any other collegiate cinder path aggregation in the United States.

The greatest loss will be felt by the Trojans through the graduation of Bud Houser, Kenneth Grumbles and Leighton Dye. Houser, champion in both weight events, and world's record holder in the discus; Grumbles, the low hurdle king, and Dye, the high hurdle champ, made 20 points between them at Boston. Bill Cook, the other graduate, made two and one-half points in the javelin.

Good Athletes Remain
Returning are Joe Aleks, shot putter, Cliff Reynolds, high hurdles and broad jump, Henry Coggeshall, high jump, and Lee Barnes, pole vault, the men who scored the rest of the points for Southern California. Around these men, other veterans of last year's dual meet victories, and a promising bunch of freshmen stars of last season, Cromwell hopes to build vanced to explain the miracle that McTigue apparently has worked in himself.

"The 'Moike,' who ought to know, says that surgical skill cured a badly crippled right hand that always had prevented him from hitting hard and that he was turned into a fighter after being knocked out by Delaney.

"They used to say that I always rode a bicycle in the ring and was a two-stepper. I was never afraid but I will admit that I was timid about being knocked out. When I finally did get it and learned that it didn't hurt, I changed my style," he said.

2C'S LEADING JULIA LATHROP SECTION MEET

Julia C. Lathrop Junior high school was in the midst of its Inter-Section track meet today which will be of four days duration and in which some 200 boys will take an active part.

Only those who classified as midgelets were permitted to take part yesterday. The juniors were to hold their meet today while the intermediates and seniors will swing into action Thursday and Friday. Each boy who places will be awarded an engraved silk ribbon, indicating the class and event in which he won honors.

Every section in the school enters as many athletes as possible in each of the four meets and that section which has the greatest grand total of points at the end of the week will be awarded the track championship of the school.

A H-Seven section known as the 2 C's, forged into the lead mainly through the efforts of Ernest Pico who won the first place and two second place ribbons to run up 16 points single handed. However, a low-seven section, known as the G's, ran a close second with 14 points, 11 of which were gained by Lucien Wilson. Pico and Wilson were high point men of the meet.

Joel Wilson, a young seventh grader who was expected to win several events, unfortunately injured a leg in the 50 yard dash which handicapped him greatly but he came through with a heave of 19 feet with the 12 lb. shot to take first honors in this event.

JUNIORS CINCH HIGH SCHOOL'S HOCKEY TITLE

Amazon athletes of the junior class today were interclass hockey champions of Santa Ana high school by virtue of their closely contested, 4 to 2, victory over the senior coeds in the crucial game of the series played yesterday at Poly field.

Even if the juniors lose to the sophomores, which is highly improbable, the laurels will go to the juniors, so far undefeated in three games. The junior-sophomore clash this afternoon will end the series playoffs for the champions, and they are favored to emerge with a perfect score.

The interclass championship in basketball as well as in hockey was won by the juniors this season.

Miss Sherill Spurgeon, center forward on the junior team, was the chief scorer for the winners. She drove the pelted "shinney" ball through the sophomore goal twice. The other junior goals were made by Miss Rowena Cone and Miss Market.

Both senior goals were scored by Miss Gayle Baldwin.

In the first quarter of the game, the junior girls battled to a lead by scoring twice. It was not until the third quarter that the senior attack was effective, resulting in both the senior goals being made.

Billy Evans Says: Names of Umpires

Colliflower, through as a player, broke into the American league as an umpire.

He was known only as Mr. Vegetable and quite often the word rotten or something more expressive, prefaced the Mr.

When a ball game became one-sided Umpire Colliflower became the object of attention. He didn't last very long and I always felt his name was his greatest handicap.

He apparently was of the same opinion. Going back to the minors he worked under a fictitious name, but how he happened to choose the one he did was beyond me—JAMES.

Naturally he was always referred to as Jesse and the fans were constantly asking him where he had left his horse.

At ten cents per package (due to the foil wrapper), it is beyond question the greatest tobacco value to be had today.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

MAY SUE OIL CONCERNS FOR LAND DAMAGE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 2.—Suits may be launched by three local property owners against companies which dumped oil on the flats east of town, it was reported today.

The property owners, Ed Farnsworth, D. O. Stewart and W. S. Thomson, will ask compensation for damage caused by oil left on their property by flood waters.

According to reports, approximately 400 acres of land owned by the three men was covered with two inches of oil. The oil had been dumped on the flats east of town. When flood waters broke the banks of the Santa Ana river and flooded the dumping area, the oil floated out over the land owned by the men.

Stewart, Farnsworth and Thomson are asking the companies to remove the oil from their property. If the concerns do not agree to remove the oil, Stewart declares that they will file suit for damages. Farnsworth owns 220 acres covered with oil, Stewart has less than 50 acres, while Thomson has approximately 120 acres.

Although officers kept a watch on the car for some time, no one appeared to claim it. According to Chief of Police Jack Tinsley, an effort is being made to check the ownership of the car through the state motor vehicle department. It had no certificate in it.

BEACH PRODUCING 45,000 BARRELS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 2.—The Standard Oil company's big 2000-barrel well in the northwestern part of the townlet field at Huntington Beach last week was all that saved that section from a substantial drop in production. It is the field is just about holding its own with a total daily production of somewhere around 45,000 barrels a day.

The past week has seen a number of wells taken off production for redrilling, recementing or plugging, and the new wells have not amounted to much in the way of production with the single exception of the Standard's Pacific Electric No. 3, which is not really in the townlet area.

SEEK BETTER TELEPHONE SERVICE AT SEAL BEACH; COMMISSION IN HEARING

SEAL BEACH, March 2.—An informal hearing was held in the Coast theater here yesterday afternoon before Arthur B. Fry, telephone and telegraph engineer of the state railroad commission, and his deputy, P. B. Rhoades, in regard to better telephone service for Seal Beach and vicinity.

At present that part of Seal Beach west of Anaheim Landing is on the Long Beach exchange of the Associated Telephone company; from Anaheim Landing east to the city limits, Seal Beach is in the Huntington Beach Telephone company's district, as is also Sunset Beach. Effort is being made to have all this territory served either by an independent exchange or else taken into the Long Beach district. The hearing was attended by Manager S. Heffle, of the Associated company; E. H. Cookingham, of the Huntington Beach company; G. B. Gleason and J. M. Kirkpatrick, of Sunset Beach, representatives of the Seal Beach Chamber of Commerce, and a large number of citizens.

After considerable discussion, an agreement was reached for a give and take proposition on an apportionment to be made by the railroad commission's engineers of the physical valuation of property and equipment of the two telephone companies now serving this territory. Petitions will then be filed with the commission, signed by residents of East Seal Beach and Sunset Beach, that they desire to be taken into the Long Beach district. It is believed this will be done unless an independent exchange is established here.

The Seal Beach Chamber of Commerce has been working on the matter for several weeks, and feels confident that desired results will be obtained.

$25,028 FLOOD CLAIM DENIED BY TRUSTEES

ORANGE, March 2.—The demand of W. B. Dennis, orange rancher, for $25,028, asserted to be due him because of damage to his citrus property during the recent storm, was denied by the city trustees at their regular meeting yesterday. Dennis filed his claim at the last meeting of the board.

The trustees declared that Dennis had no basis for his claim. Dennis, in his demand, stated that the city was responsible because it allowed a gravel firm to excavate Santiago creek, with resultant damage during the storm.

With the exception of two arrests for liquor possession, the activities of the police department during February were confined principally to traffic cases, according to the monthly report of B. F. Richards, chief of police.

During the month 60 traffic offenders were tagged, the report showed. Of these 33 were for speeding, 17 for failing to observe boulevard stops, six for reckless driving, three for no operator's license and one for parking in an alley.

Recorder G. W. Ingle collected $340 in fines during the month. Of this amount, $75 was contributed to the police fund and $265 to the street fund.

Miss Mabel A. Reeves, city treasurer and water rate collector, reported that during February six new water connections were made with a total of $269.28 in collections made. During February the water pumped into the city reservoir amounted to 15,250,000 gallons while 15,020,000 gallons were pumped into the mains, according to the report of W. J. Richardson, city water superintendent.

Approximately $7000 less reposes in the city treasury today than on February 1, according to the report of Cal D. Lester, city clerk. The exact sums given in Lester's report are as follows: February 1, $153,778.92; March 1, $146,827.64.

Upon recommendation of Chief Richards, Will Martin, realtor, was authorized to submit a bill for $5 each month for the use by the police department of his office as a night office.

The water committee and the water superintendent were authorized to act in the matter of fencing the city water plant. The fence will cost approximately $200 including a cement curb in which the posts will be set, according to Richardson's estimate.

A tentative list of members of the proposed city planning commission was agreed upon by the members of the board. However, as the list was not complete and definitely decided upon, the board decided to let the matter over until the next meeting on March 8. The list as discussed by the board has 52 names. It numbers many of the prominent men of the city together with representatives from each of the 14 precincts.

EVENING SALUTATION

"The day is done, and the darkness
Falls from the wings of night
Like a feather is wafted downward
By an eagle in its flight."

TIME TO PLAN AND PLANT

Recently, eastern farm and garden magazines, as well as many that do not serve the agriculturists alone, have blossomed out with alluring advertisements urging the purchase of seeds for spring planting. The ground, after a snowy sleep, is due to thaw out.

When we see these advertisements we muse for a few moments upon the advantages that the gardener, both vegetable and flower, has in Orange county. There isn't a month in the year when he cannot plant a number of things to advantage. There isn't a week in the year when he cannot be taking vegetables from his garden to his table. There isn't a day in the year when flowers cannot be gathered in one's yard.

Not long ago, we found ourselves interested in a report written by Orange Clark, former resident of Villa Park, now with the Theosophical institute, at Point Loma, San Diego. He and his brother, in charge of the orchards of the institute, were charged with the duty of furnishing fresh fruit for every day of the year, to be served the children of the institute. With room to plant, with good soil and good water, together with a knowledge of California fruits and seasons, the brothers had no difficulty in supplying the needs.

A little planning, proper planting and some attention are all that is needed to produce results in our gardens. Now is a good time to plan and to plant, not only gardens, but orchards, for while we can plant any month of the year, even in California there is no time that seems to produce results quite equal to early spring planting.

SHOULD ASSUME OUR SHARE

We believe the directors of the Delhi Drainage district are fully justified in expecting the city of Santa Ana to help pay for the maintenance of the district's ditches.

True, water that came in rainfall where Santa Ana now stands drained, for centuries perhaps, directly to the south and southwest. However, the construction of buildings and pavements has altered the situation. Vast quantities of water run off quickly and into the canals of the Delhi district. The ditches must be kept up in better shape and must be bigger than they would have to be if they were called upon merely to serve the district under primeval conditions; that is, than would be necessary if there were no city of Santa Ana where Santa Ana is. Through our location there is a burden placed upon the district.

Because there is such a burden, there is no reason that we can see why Santa Ana should not pay a fair proportion of the cost of maintaining the canals. If these canals had not been built by the district, undoubtedly we would have had to go to the expense of building storm canals of our own.

THE EAGLE-BIRD

"Southward the bird of empire wings its way," says the magazine "Liberty," in a headline screaming like a hungry bald eagle on a mountain top. "The eagle has flown in ever-widening circles over the old Spanish Main—what next?"

Evidently the editor of "Liberty" believes Mexico and Nicaragua are next, for he confidently prophesies that 75 years from now, the people of these countries, along with the rest of Central America, will be singing the "Star-Spangled Banner."

The average American may reply that that is all right, provided our southern neighbors line up to learn our national song of their own volition, instead of having it rammed down the throats of the next two generations with American bayonets.

When the aforesaid magazine hints so blatantly of annexing everything in sight to the south, an old-fashioned American, brought up on the principle of government by the consent of the governed, feels like pointing to the magazine's name and asking "Liberty—for whom?"

If the American eagle means anything, it is a genuine bird of freedom, for ourselves and for others.

ALLEVIATION SOUGHT

A great many marvelous things have been revealed by the American College of Physicians at its recent session in Cleveland, indicating that medical science is still advancing and that its representatives are tireless in their efforts to solve the baffling mysteries of disease.

Several serious diseases still come under the classification "incurable," although there are signs and hopes that this will not always be so. Constant study is being applied to every phase of them.

"While this study goes on," says one prominent physician, "the condition of the patient suffering from an incurable disease has been greatly improved."

His suffering has been lessened; his life has been prolonged; it has been made possible in many cases for him to lead a fairly normal life while the fight against the disease is carried on.

The tremendous saving in human happiness, comfort and independence effected by this alleviation, even without cure, of disease is hard to estimate, but very real.

SWIMMING AND LIFE-SAVING

As swimming gains in popularity it is appropriate that life-saving methods in the water should be widely taught. The Red Cross has established certain standards which all would-be life-savers must be able to meet before they can wear the badge of honor and responsibility. These standards involve being able to swim a certain distance with a number of different strokes, perform difficult feats in the water, break the strangle hold or other hindering grip of the drowning person, tow or carry the victim to shore in various ways according to conditions, apply artificial breathing methods, and so on.

These methods are taught nowadays wherever swimming is taught, and competent examiners watch the progress of the learner and give him or her the life-saving tests as many times as necessary until they are successfully passed. The tests are repeated from time to time. Once a life-saver is not always a life-saver unless one keeps in practice.

There are junior and senior life-savers, because there are youngsters as well as adults who are eagerly learning these important things. Boy Scouts and similar organizations for boys and girls offer instruction in life-saving. At summer camps, swimmers and non-swimmers are lined up along the beach and taught methods of resuscitation.

All of this means not only more people prepared to rescue those threatened with drowning, but also more people thoroughly trained in the practice of swimming and comfortably "at home" in the water. In time this is bound to mean more safety, fewer drownings.

Many Measures Before It

Members of the state legislature, convened in the second half of its session, have heard much of the advisability of cutting down the number of bills and are acquainted with all of the arguments for a repealing and trimming of laws already in force. Surveying the requests they have received from organizations and individuals, reading the telegrams, postals and letters, they know it is much easier to talk of reducing legislation than it is to accomplish even a little in that direction.

Approximately two thousand bills have been introduced. Fortunately a large number will be quietly chloroformed in committee. As this session possesses a large majority in harmony with the administration there will be no disposition to pass doubtful measures for the sake of embarrassing a governor. There is a chance the harvest of bills passed will be lighter than in many years and a chance, too, that some truly constructive measures will become law.

The lawmakers must act upon the governor's plan to reorganize state departments; the scheme for a tax investigation; reapportionment to carry out the will of the people as expressed at the polls in November; the gasoline tax; the plan for a revision of criminal procedure; water conservation; economies in government; election law changes; and the general farm program.

The Breed gas tax bill offers a particularly happy solution to a controversy which waged at the polls in November when methods of financing highway building were argued and defeated because of the disposition to quarrel over which roads should be improved. The differences in opinion at that time demonstrated there could be no progressive program of highway construction without an agreement among sections of the state, and the agreement, thanks to the readiness of representative men to meet and discuss the whole problem upon its merits, was quickly reached.

Tree Planting Encouraged

The importance of tree planting and tree preservation has been realized not merely for years, but for centuries.

Yet some aspects of this problem are painfully new. There is a lack, not so much of common knowledge as of popular impulse to do the effective thing.

For many years, in various parts of the United States, there have been "Arbor Days," and tree planting societies, and committees of women's clubs and of chambers of commerce.

The result has been much good. But the total amount of good has been so small, in proportion to the apparent opportunity, as to seem almost nothing.

Fresno and central California have been shapers in much of this early planting. The most of Fresno county was, to start with, a treeless waste. In the decade that we call the "Eighties," many thousands of trees were planted. Some of these remain magnificent groves or avenues. Some have deteriorated through neglect. Some have been increased. This area is very far from being treeless now.

Yet, while there has been some small planting, the total result of our public policy has been to plant a few trees in the valley, and to brutally destroy a large part of the forest wealth that was of understood value even 50 years ago.

Bakersfield is now claiming a population of 30,565 and the oil city is more modest than cities in its class in Southern California. Riverside, San Bernardino and Santa Ana all hope to be in the "30,000 or better" class by 1930 and Bakersfield should fall in the same group. One wonders sometimes, however, if the hopes of all these cities will be realized. If not, what one or ones will be found below the 30,000 mark.—Riverside Press.

WOMAN IN INDUSTRY MUST WATCH HEALTH

The Medical Research Council of Great Britain has completed an investigation of the physique of working women in an attempt to determine what limits should be placed on their physical work.

Over 3000 women employed in factories were studied and compared with 400 women who had formerly worked in factories but who had been out of work for a long period. The final group for comparison included 500 healthy women who were attending a college for teachers.

Among the tests applied were lifting, the grip of the hand, and a crushing forward movement. The heaviest work done by any of the women was that in the chemical works and in the brick works, but others were occupied in steel trades and in potteries. Many of the women also worked in industries which merely required them to watch activities of various machines.

It was found by the observers that the most perfect specimens of womanhood in industry were the girls in the chemical works in Glasgow. Practically all of the women had been born and bred in the slum districts of Glasgow and their mothers and grandmothers had done the same kind of work before them.

One of these girls had shoveled from twenty to twenty-five tons of raw material in one day, lifting the shovel to a height of 2 1/2 feet.

The girls who worked in the brick works carried as much as one hundred pounds at a time, a distance of from seventy to eighty yards.

About half the girls were between the ages of 17 and 22. The average weight of the women studied was found to be 108 pounds; the average height was 62 inches; the average pull of the body upward was 183 pounds; the grip was 58 pounds, and the crushing power was 50 pounds.

The teachers, who ranged from 18 to 22 years of age, were in general, in height, weight and strength superior to both groups of working girls. In an attempt to account for their physical superiority it was found that they underwent a medical examination before employment, so that they were really picked women. All of them had regular physical training, and during their training regular physical examinations.

As a result of this inquiry it was not possible to decide on any tests that should be applied in determining particular fitness for industry of women workers. It was only suggested that such workers should have a complete physical examination previous to employment in industries requiring heavy physical labor, and regular examinations as to their fitness to continue such work.

Not every hero wears the bay;
There's many a hidden wound and scar
That never sees the light of day.

Their courage falters not nor faints,
Not all brave deeds are done in war.

Zoning Theory Wisely Upheld

San Bernardino Sun

Decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in upholding the constitutionality of municipal zoning ordinances in their general scope and dominant features is vital to the orderly development of modern communities. That the supreme court would render the decision that marks a divergence from the age-old theory of the rights of the individual property owner to the peaceful enjoyment of his property as he alone might elect had not been confidently expected. In fact three members of the court of nine dissented.

The supreme court insists that the constitutional rights of a property owner have not changed and cannot change. Developments of communities, however, are changing and legislation for the protection of the health and safety of communities is necessary, the court rules. It is only under the latter theory that there can be legal restrictions on the peaceful use of property by the owner.

That the welfare of the great majority of the people dictated that the principle of zoning ordinances be upheld had been recognized for years, but just how the constitutional rights of the individual property owner were to be set aside was the problem that has worried city officials everywhere. The superior court of San Bernardino county ruled, in a San Bernardino city case, that the constitutional rights of a property owner were abridged by a zoning ordinance.

The court outlines the changing situation which must be applied to the constitutional provisions:

"Regulations, the wisdom, necessity and validity of which, as applied to existing conditions, are so apparent that they are now uniformly sustained, a century ago, or even half a century ago, probably would have been rejected as arbitrary and oppressive. Such regulations are sustained, under the complex conditions of our day, for reasons analogous to those which justify traffic regulations, which, before the advent of automobiles and rapid transit street railways, would have been condemned as fatally arbitrary and unreasonable.

"And in this there is no inconsistency, for while the meaning of constitutional guarantees never varies, the scope of their application must expand or contract to meet the new and different conditions which are constantly coming within the field of their operation. In a changing world, it is impossible that it should be otherwise.

"But although a degree of elasticity is thus imparted, not to the meaning, but to the application of constitutional principles, statutes and ordinances, which, after giving due weight to the new conditions, are found clearly not to conform to the Constitution, of course, must fall.

"The ordinance now under review and all similar laws and regulations must find their justification in some aspect of the public power, asserted for the public welfare. The line which in this field separates the legitimate from the illegitimate assumption of power is not capable of precise delimitation.

"It varies with circumstances and conditions. A regulatory zoning ordinance, which would be clearly valid as applied to the great cities, might be clearly invalid as applied to rural communities."

Just how the police power is applied to the zoning situation is explained in detail by the supreme court, and that body admits it finds some difficulty in reaching the apartment house situation, although it does reach it.

The matter of zoning has received much attention at the hands of commissions and experts, and the results of their investigations have been set forth in comprehensive reports. These reports, which bear every evidence of painstaking consideration, concur in the view that the segregation of residential, business and industrial buildings will make it easier to provide fire apparatus suitable for the character and intensity of the development in each section; that it will increase the safety and security of home life; greatly tend to prevent street accidents, especially to children, by reducing the traffic and resulting confusion in residential sections; decrease noise and other conditions which produce or intensify nervous disorders; preserve a more favorable environment in which to rear children, etc.

"With particular reference to apartment houses, it is pointed out that the development of detached house sections greatly retarded by the coming of apartment houses, which has sometimes resulted in destroying the entire section for private house purposes; that in such sections very often the apartment house is a mere parasite constructed in order to take advantage of the open spaces and attractive surroundings created by the residential character of the district.

"Moreover, the coming of one apartment house is followed by others, interfering by their height and bulk with the free circulation of air and monopolizing the rays of the sun which otherwise would fall upon the smaller homes, and bringing as their necessary accomplishments, the disturbing noises incident to increased traffic and business, and the occupation, by means of moving and parked automobiles, of larger portions of the streets, thus detracting from the safety of quiet and open spaces for play, enjoyed by those in more favored localities—until, finally, the residential character of the neighborhood and its desirability as a place of detached residences are utterly destroyed."

The opinion was rendered in an action which developed at the village of Euclid, a suburb of Cleveland, and the supreme court overruled the decision of the district court.

The highest legal authority in the land has now spoken and in the light of its decision cities everywhere will hasten to put into effect ordinances modeled after that upheld in the decision.

"THAT consistency is the feature which makes advertising successful.

N. W. Ayer & Son, the prominent advertising agency of Philadelphia, use as their slogan the phrase "Keeping Everlastingly at It Brings Success." This is indeed wise advice, as is confirmed by the fact that the advertisers who follow this policy are the successful merchandisers of their respective commodities. Time and again surveys and statistics have proven that the local merchants (as well as manufacturers doing business on a national scale), whose schedules are judiciously planned and constantly applied, are the firms which are securing the substantial returns from their advertising investment.

So many times, while being solicited for advertising, the small merchant feels that advertising is necessary. He does not seem to appreciate the possibilities of increasing sales and the development of a larger organization through the proper use of publicity. The only thing he can visualize is the direct cost of such publicity, which he considers an additional operating expense, without planning and anticipating the results therefrom. This brings to mind the story told by a renowned advertising man about a solicitor who was endeavoring to sell a small town storekeeper on the idea of advertising. The merchant is quoted as saying, "I do not need to advertise because I've been at this location for 30 years and everyone knows I'm here." The salesman referred to a church across the street saying, "That church has been in that location for 50 years. Yet they ring the bell EVERY SUNDAY MORNING."

KEEPING EVERLASTINGLY AT IT BRINGS SUCCESS.

The Braided Rug

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

THE now-a-days folk are rather prone to value things by what they cost. It's the modern trend to pay too much attention to the price tag and forget that there are other values in life which are really more important. We have so much more of the Things of life than grandmother had that I sometimes think we fail to appreciate anything for its real value. In these days of easy merchandising where we can buy things and replace them so easily it's no wonder the children fail to realize that everything they have cost somebody effort or sacrifice. Then, too, because we do just go out and buy so much we lose that sense of sentiment and personal touch. After all it isn't always the intrinsic value in an article which makes it desirable. It may be a labor of love, or a personal sacrifice which gives it a value far beyond what money can buy. Let us take care to help the children appreciate the real worth of things.

MY Grandmother Andrews
Braided a rug
All made out of goods from our dresses.

She tore them in strips
With the shivervest rips,
Then braided the pieces like tresses.

She used a bright blue strip
With yellow and red
Then fastened the ends, sewing tightly.

She had 'most a mile Braided after a while
Which lay in a heap colored brightly.

Then Grandmother Andrews
Sewed it in rows
Around and around tight together.

So now it's a rug
Lying cozy and snug
On the hearth where we sit in cold weather.
